Earth...a swirling sphere of land, sea, and sky. A planet of restless motion and activity. Night and day, time, temperature, spring, summer, fall, and winter are influenced by the ever-constant, never-ending oscillation of our universe. Conglommeration of thought, feeling, and appearance, diverse race and religion, incorporate this planet of people. A planet bound by a hidden, unseen force. Human beings are subject to an unusual affliction—an urge to improve, advance, and progress...an urge to change.

Mobile, restless—society builds, shifts, expands, and modifies. Shining steel towers are raised to the sky; the cathedrals of commerce pierce the heavens. The roar of traffic, the din of machinery, the pulsations of the city regulate and influence man's behavior. He pushes himself to live, move, and react to his limited environment. Like the flash of a stoplight, the city remains constant, yet ever-changing.

Laurie, We've come a long way since Santiago Jr. High. We have not seen muc of each other here at El Mo. But I'm glad that we had a chance to get to know each other. Stono was fun. So as the sun sets on are latest days here at El Mo, I give you my best wishes - good luck and God Bless Stretching across a rosy horizon, the city stands as an active symbol of man's ability to create and fabricate an environment suitable for his multifarious needs. Man's past, present, and future are represented by the thought, planning, construction, and eventual habitation of these metropolitan areas. Centers of business, the arts, mercantilism, labor, and entertainment, are vital elements of our modern society. Man builds schools; education, too, plays a necessary role in the development of the world. People must be taught the functions of society, practical skills, and the artistry to communicate with others.

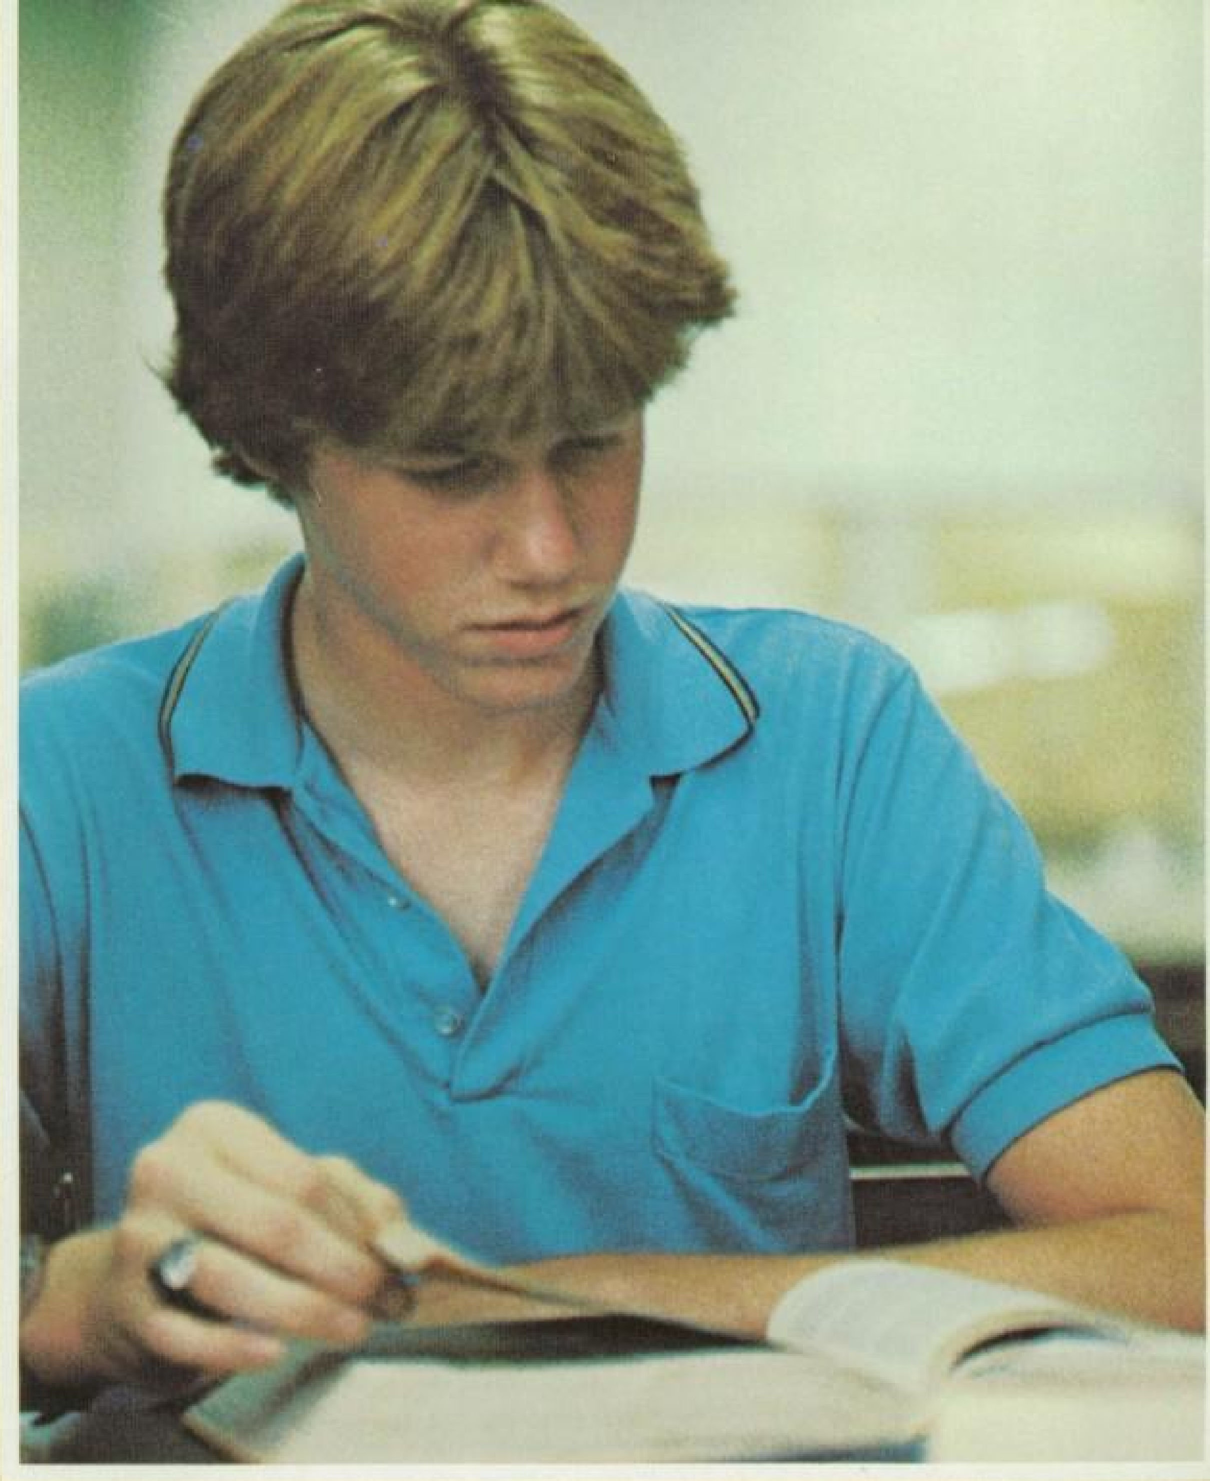
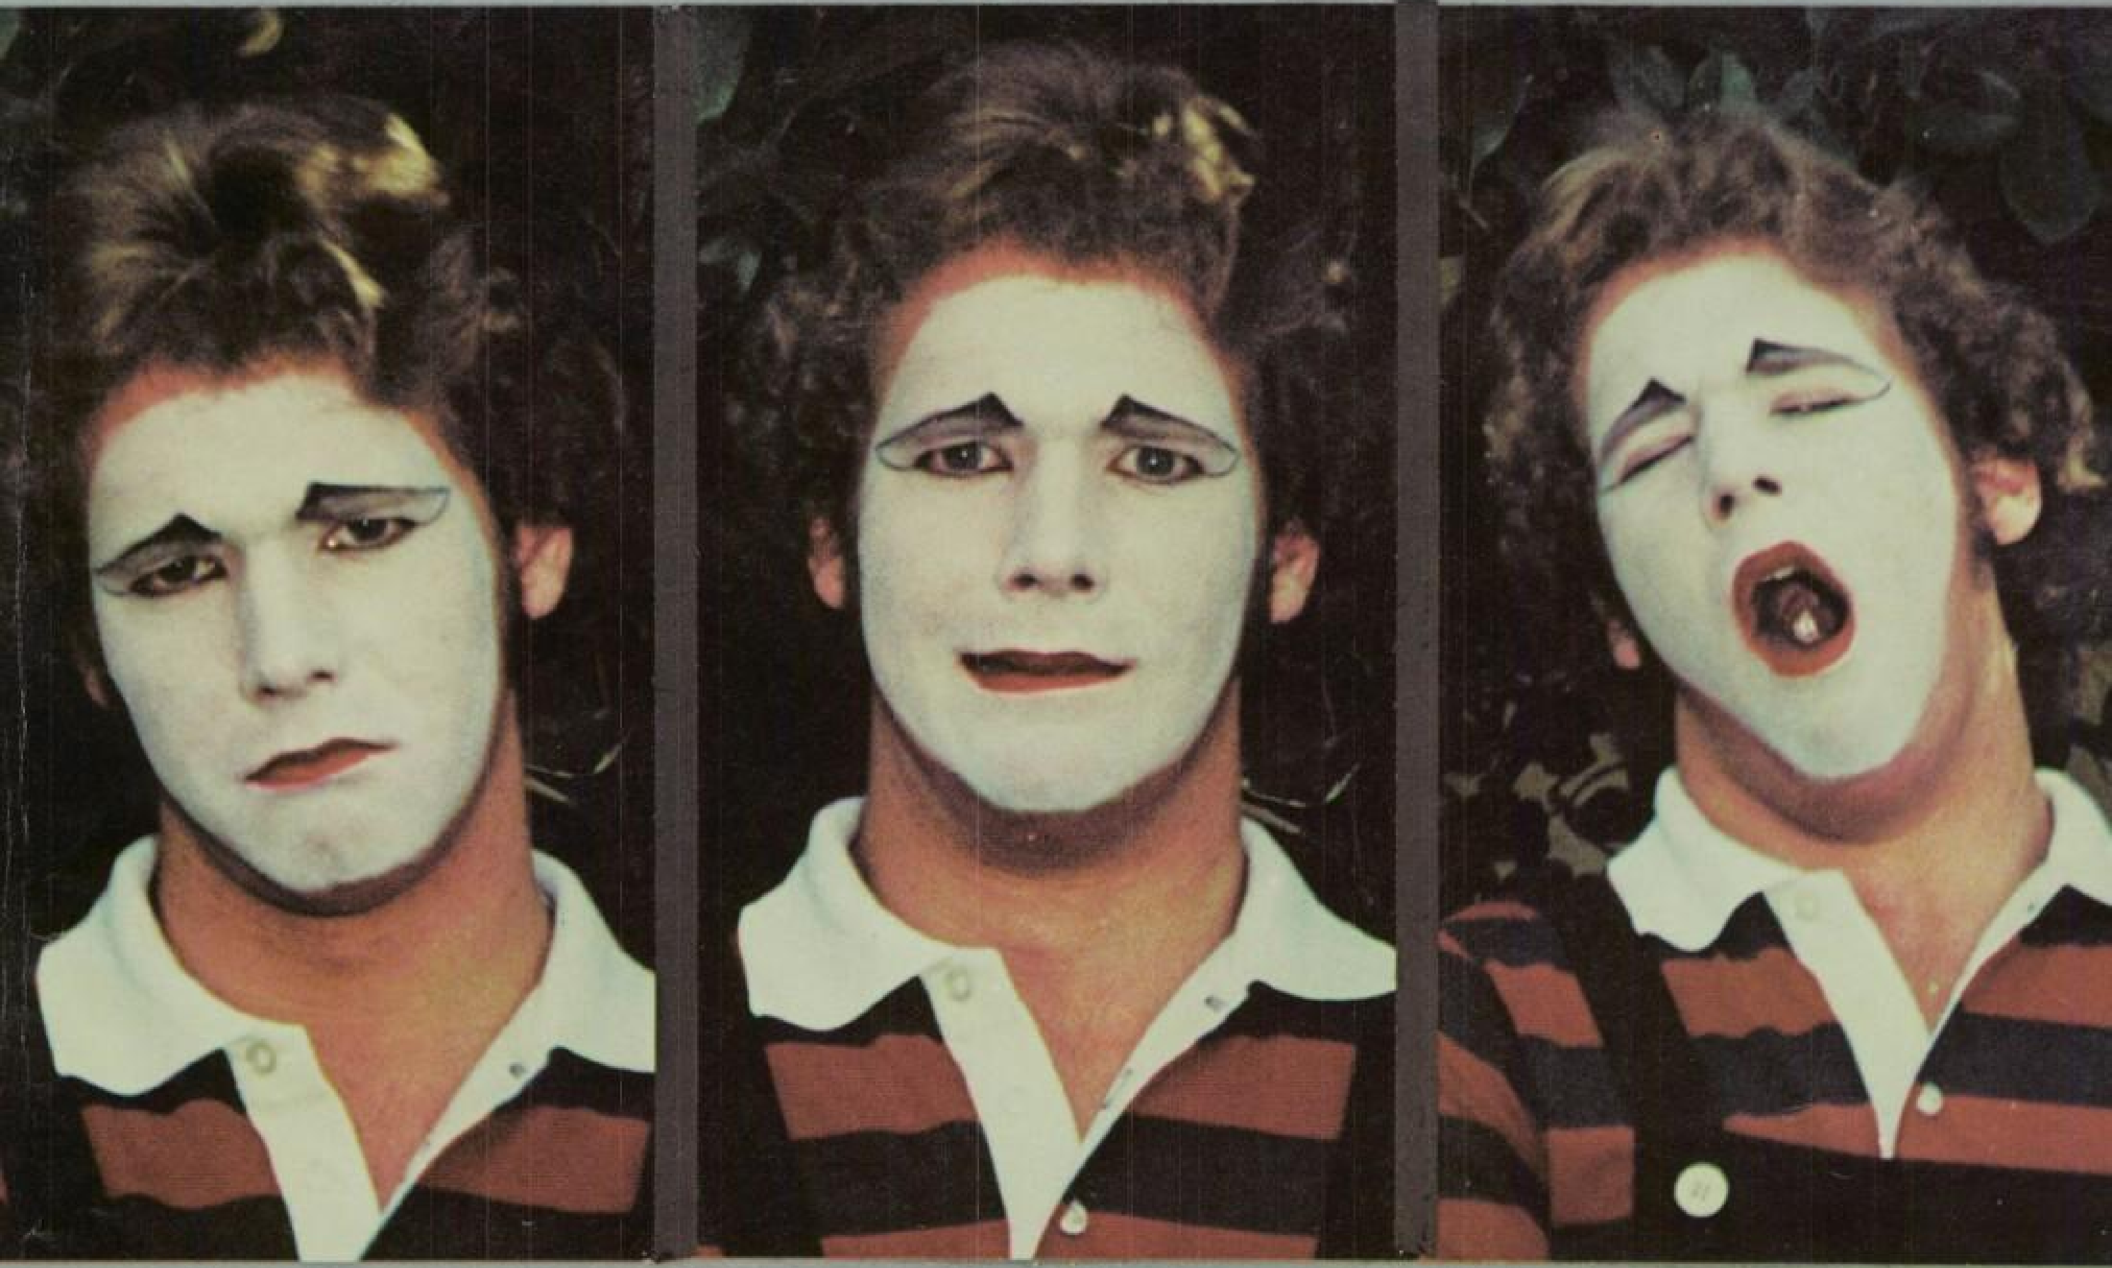
CALIFORNIA

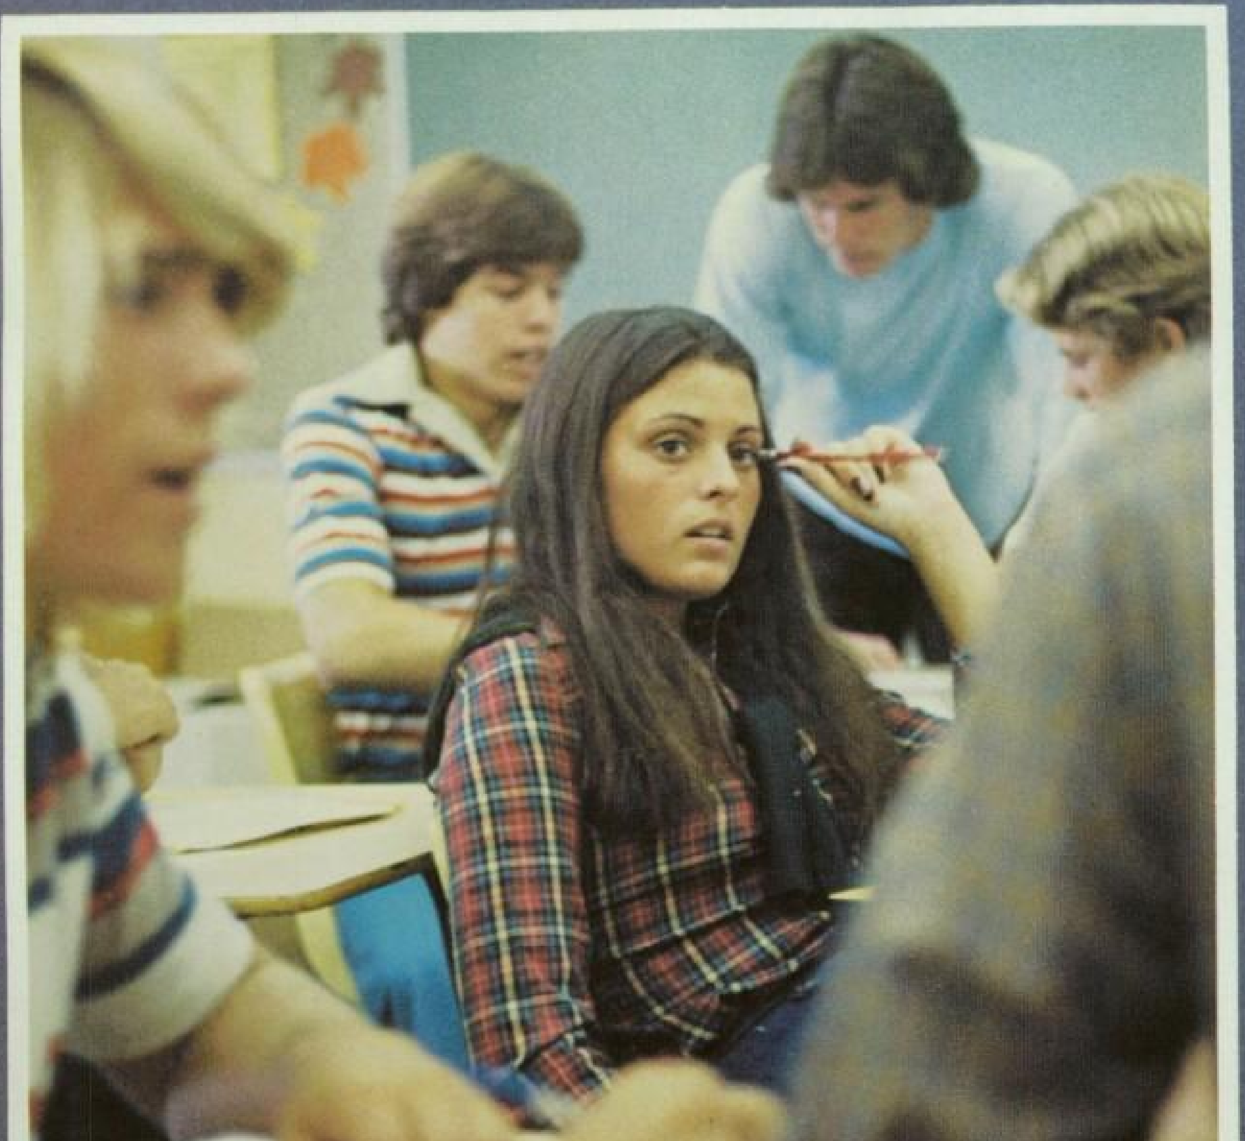
The bell sounds, and once again the sea of students floods from class, penetrating the silence of an otherwise quiet campus. Seniors, juniors, and sophomores move on to class, as they move into the future. The students never remain the same . . . they change . . . they grow. The adapt to their world, their surroundings, and others. Enriching themselves with an education, or participating with others in activities, everyday is a new conquest—a day with a difference. The routine may remain the same, yet it is accepted differently.

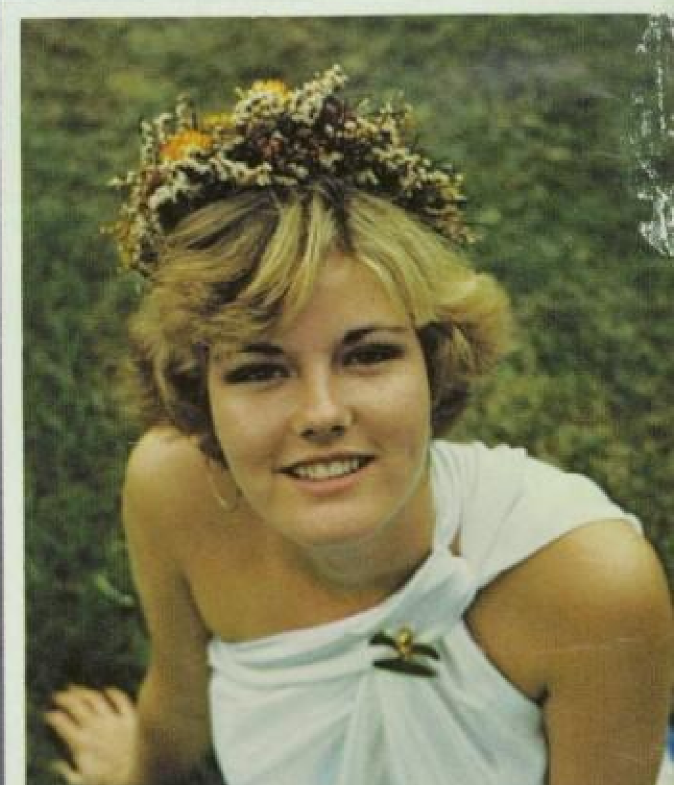


The slow and sometimes difficult process of education is a never-ending, lifetime experience. We internalize facts, theories, processes, and ideas, to develop a mind able to better comprehend our environment and ourselves. Constantly we gratify our urge to adapt to our surroundings. Education can be self-satisfying, provide us with the interaction of ideas, and help make the complexities of life a little less complex.

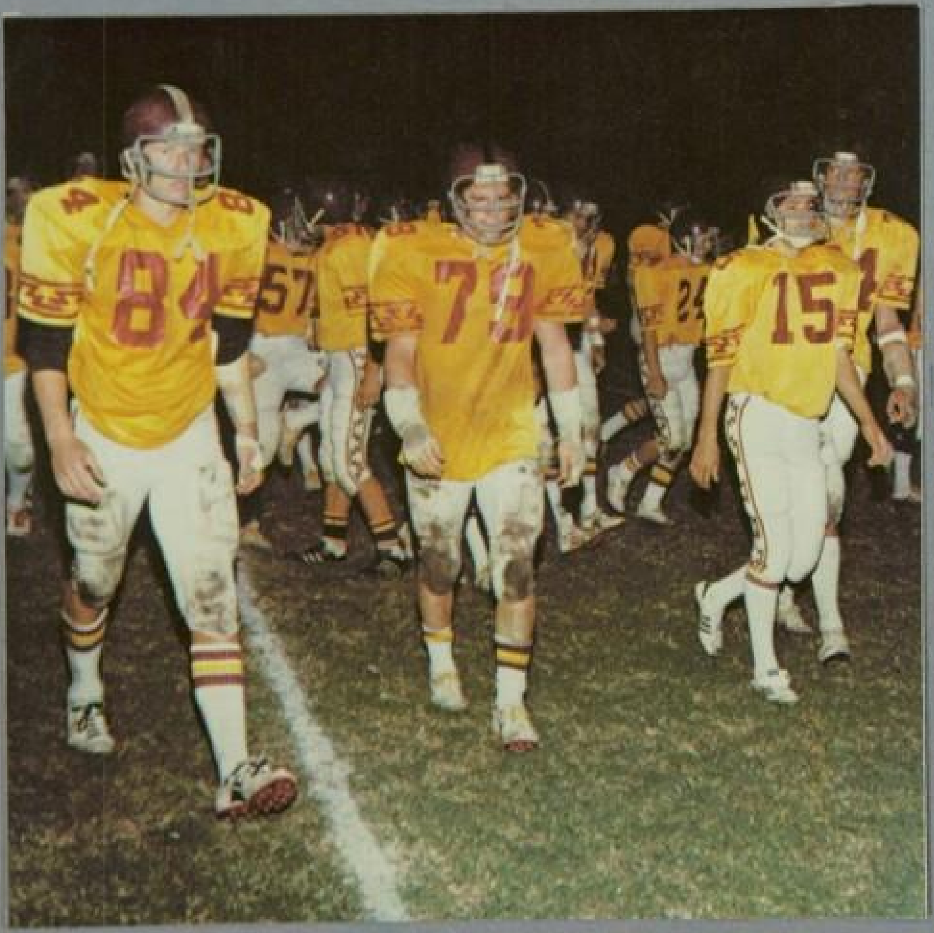
Although the mimic may represent an illusion of personalities and situations, he also represents in his highly sensitive style, the changing attitudes and moods of people. Portraying human emotions that range from happiness to sadness, or, surprise to boredom, is shown through his silent expressions and actions. His ancient craft tells the audience much about themselves, as well as all mankind.

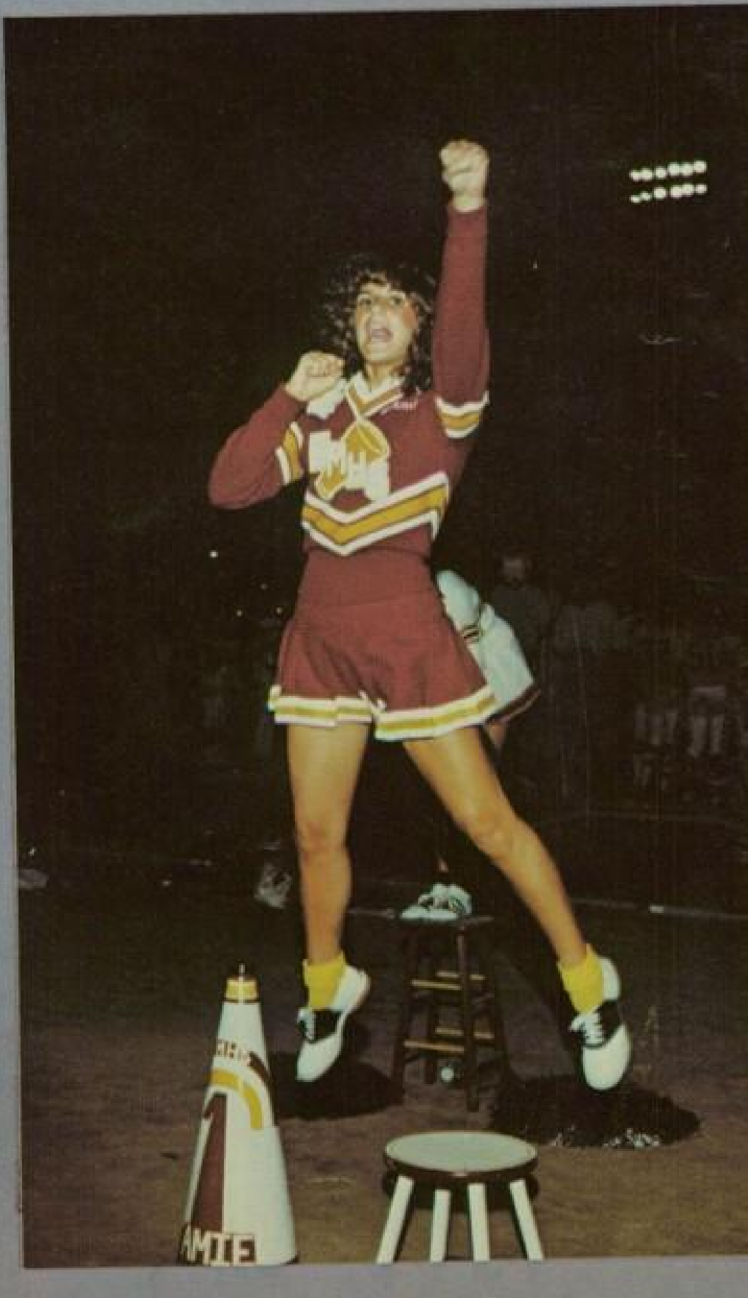






People . . . hundreds of people . . . every single one with a separate personality and way of thinking unique to that individual alone. Without the element of human contrast and the diversity of personality, El Modena would remain a mass of boring, lifeless emptyness. People fill the void, creating a many-colored tapestry—each representing a thread in the development of life. Each one, in their own way, is special, different, unusual, and unique.





"Participate", "get involved", are the watchwords of our active society. Students express their interests, abilities, and creative talents, or just have a good time in a myriad variety of activities. From student government, to performing in the band, or perhaps acting on the stage, activities assume different forms and fashions. From the cheerleader, to the toga-clad senior at spirit week, to the exhausted footbll team member, students show the willingness to conform with the group, or do their own thing.

Additions and alterations dominated the scene of El Modena's activities. New groups, such as the Disco Club, were formed, while others, like the Curriculum Committee were temporarily set aside. Three new innovations; year-round cheerleading, election of a Homecoming King and a carnival, were initiated on a trial basis. Electing second semester cheerleaders made for a "more enthusiastic" spring pep squad. Another election, that of a Homecoming King, began as a push by the senior class under Title 9. "Coronation, Sadie Hawkins, and even the Sweetheart Dance, have had full courts but somehow, Homecoming has always been neglected," explained Activities Director Mr. Ron Gardon. The band took over sponsorship of the Swap Meet while the student government supplemented its loss by holding an old-fashioned carnival. Through this event the Cabinet, was able to reach out to the community, and at the same time they earned money.

Despite the many positive changes, a huge drop in activities sticker sales created hardships for the A.S.B. Cabinet. "We tried to keep the prices, of things like dance tickets, down as much as possible," commented A.S.B. Treasurer Robin Funke about the effect of decreased funding for school activities. Even though students had to pay slightly higher prices, the activities remained "high in quality" at El Modena.

Pirates and sword dueling opened traditional Spirit Week activities on Tuesday, October 17th. Sophomore Swashbucklers, muttering their own version of pirate jargon, pillaged the campus garbed in costumes from the Seven Seas. Some, in the fashion of Long John Silver, had parrots.

In order to keep Spirit Week running smoothly, a new policy was adopted. The policy still allowed a day for each class to dress up and a final day for all the classes to decorate their designated areas, but, it did change the name of the final Friday to Vanguard Day. The idea was to promote school spirit rather than individual class spirit.

On Vanguard Day, the class of 1981 bedecked the area between the 400 and 500 buildings with ships and treasures. At the pep assembly, the sophomores received special recognition for their outstanding posters. In pirate merriment, they also used a sea ballad sung to the tune of "Chattanooga Choo-choo" throughout their skit.

Tourists, who came from "Around the World in '80 Days", crowded through El Modena's gates on Wednesday, October 18. The tourists, who on other days were known as juniors, seemingly arrived from such distant places like Saudi Arabia and closer ones to home, like Disneyland.

The class of 1980 held a lap-setting contest and a suitcase relay during lunch. Involving all the classes, the race was "quite a show". When the yelling and cheering had finally subsided, it was announced that the juniors had won both activities.

When Friday arrived, the flagpole area had taken on the casual appearance of a travel bureau. Beach umbrellas stood in the grass, while travel posters decorated the library wall. Uniting together, the juniors also purchased t-shirts emblemed with their motto "Around the World in '80 Days". During the assembly the class of '80 released bags of helium balloons to announce their victory in the competition cheer.

senior "togas" conquer spirit week

With a burst of spirit, the class of '79 revealed increased enthusiasm over previous years. The senior theme, "Togas" (which represented "the outstanding gallant adventurous seniors"), was borrowed from National Lampoon's movie "Animal House". The same classic fraternity traditions were present, but Mrs. Catherine Lee, senior class sponsor, felt, "It certainly brought out leadership qualities that had been covered up."

On Thursday, October 19th, the philosophical upperlcassmen "Romed" the campus draped in a diverse assortment of bedsheets. Optional accessories included laurel wreaths, plastic grapes, and Roman sandals. At lunchtime the three classes contested in grape gobbling and "wine" drinking as well as a shopping cart chariot race.

Coach Bob Lester began his speech for Friday's competition assembly with a few Aristotelian words of wisdom about the upcoming game and when he finished, he was whisked away in a royal sedan chair by the "Togas". Later, the senior skit was performed with King and Queen Toga, the Villa Park Villain, an angel, and the devil. The finale of the assembly came with the awarding of the spirit gun to the triumphant upperclassmen. As Senior Class President Mark Buehler explained, "Our participation was great. We didn't create any major disturbances either—everybody kept their heads." El Moden'as united spirit carried over to the game against last year's C.I.F. champion Villa Park with the Vanguards winning it 24-0.

"it takes all kinds of people"

"The responsibilities of the Cabinet were increased tremendously since the passage of Proposition 13," commented A.S.B. President Patti Colin. "Budgeting became our major worry. Because of the cancellation of August registration, the activities sticker sales (normally sold during that time) went down $2000. Even after our big push, sales didn't pick up."

Although available money was not at hand, the Cabinet continued to function without it. The fair representation of all students, promotion of school pride, increased student involvement and awareness were the proposed aims. The Cabinet, whose motto "It takes all kinds of people" represented their general feelings, "needed cooperation". Activities Director Mr. Ron Gardon remarked, "It was shown in the overwhelming active participation in all areas of school life."

As well as the wish box and treat days, the student government sponsored other activities—large and small. Perhaps the largest was the first annual carnival. This was held in lieu of the swap meet because the financial loss was too great. The carnival was old-fashioned, with amusement park rides and booths sponsored by the various clubs and factions on campus.

Feasible solutions, and answers to questions, were what the Supreme Court, the Senate, and some other student councils attempted to attain throughout the course of the year. The students, however, were not the only ones concerned—the Parent-Faculty-Student-Organization also devoted some of their time in order to aid the students.

The Supreme Court, the judicial branch of the school's government, remained inactive until the second quarter. At the beginning of the school year, before the trial took place, they elected new Justices Sheila Hoffman, Alan Kokka, and Mark Jackman and chose Elena Kim to be Chief Justice.

Voting on money matters occupied most of the Senate's time during the week of January 15-19, as they attempted to dole out money to the clubs. Usually the club presidents and some A.S.B. executives met once a month to discuss problems or to give suggestions for existing problems.

The two councls, C.A.S.C. and S.A.C.B.E., carried on as usual by attending meetings in order to make sure the students received fair representation.

A new look was given to Homecoming '78 that will probably remain as a tradition for as long as there is an El Modena High School. The new tradition, the coronation of a king, was first proposed by Senior Class President Mark Buehler. He felt that Homecoming was always "centered around the girls" and it was about time for a change.

On Friday, November 3, during the half-time of the football game against neighboring Santa Ana High, the fans awaited the arrival of the princesses. It was not until a colossal firework display illuminated the sky, that Dana Paulson was proclaimed the new Homecoming Queen. Thus, with their new queen chosen, the Vanguards finished the match with a 41-7 victory.

The following evening at the Homecoming Dance, on November 4, the coronation of the first Homecoming King took place (the first school in the Orange Unified School District to do so). Newly crowned Steve Barrowcliff received more than a crown as "Queen Dana" bestowed him with a "regal" kiss.

Another feature of the dance was the band "Jason", which hosted multi-talented Vanguard, Kimaya Koepke. It was not her first singing engagement here—she previously sang at the '77 Coronation.

In a time of television movie theaters, acting appears so simple. Many students are unaware of the hard work it takes to perform in an El Modena play production. On television and films an actor can afford to make a mistake, because the show is taped and mistakes are redone, but on live stage, perfection is demanded by Mrs. Maryian Herde and the actors themselves.

To be in a play one had to first tryout and display their talents to the advisor. After viewing many "cold readings" and improvisions she selected the best cast and the rehearsals began. However, those students who worked on the sets as prop designers and set builders worked equally as hard in the effort to make the plays success. Thespian Vice President Cindy Call remarked, "We worked together like a family, even those who did not perform. We all were drawn closer because we had the same interests."

Some of the major credits to El Modena play productions were "Arsenic and Old Lace", "Spoon River Anthology", "The Good Doctor", and the final musical "Bye Bye Birdie".

Unaffected by either Proposition 13 or a switch to year-round cheering, the '78-'79 Junior Varsity and Sophomore cheerleaders worked even closer together. "Rotating cheerleaders is a good idea, but it puts the new group at a big disadvantage. They were left with so little time to prepare, while we prepared throughout the entire summer" commented J.V. Cheerleader Becky Taylor.

During summer camp, both squads determined that getting along well with each other would be a primary goal. They were also dedicated to raising Vanguard enthusiasm. "It was a challenge trying to raise sophomore spirit to an all time high" explained cheerleader Judy Yu.

With each new year, new memories are formed. Some of their rememberances were...11p.m. pizza at camp, visiting Santa, going up the curb, C.I.F. champs, decorating, WHOMP UM and Chinese fire drills.

Near the end of last year's second semester, a special election was called. The issue at hand was that of initiating year-round cheerleading. Foothill High School, along with other California secondary schools had tried this method successfully. The procedure was to elect new cheerleaders for spring sports, who would continue to cheer throughout the fall semester of the following year. Relieving the pressures of graduation for the senior pep squad members was stated as the major purpose for the switch-over. The bill was approved by a large majority of the student body and went into effect this year.

With the added responsibilities of teaching midterm clinics and cheering through four extra C.I.F. games, the '78-'79 Varsity Cheer and Songleaders put in many extra hours. There was always one more poster to paint or one more cheer to learn. "Hard work and alot of dedication is what you must have to be on the Pep Squad", expressed Advisor Mrs. Barbara Clark.

Some of the Varsity memories were . . . camp, last minute everything, "the big escape", V.P. game 24-9, C.I.F., Spirit Week, '79 rules, last Alma Mater.

trio generates school spirit

"How much spirit a crowd demonstrates depends upon the sport," said Sandy Scott, the Pep Commissioner. Generating school spirit appeared to be no problem for Sandy and the '78-'79 Mascots Kelly Templeton and Tami Long.

Winning the Best Mascots award at the United Spirit Association Cheerleading Summer Camp, out of 65 others, began the reign of Kelly and Tami. They were also ununexpectedly rewarded with applications to teach the following summer. They continued to cheer through February when they were joined by newly elected '79-'80 Mascots Beth Herich and Kevin Carlson.

Even so, problems were not unknown to the Vanguard Mascots. They never seemed to have enough time to prepare a new skit for each assembly and getting people involved posed other problems.

Sandy Scott was in charge of keeping track of "all the girls" who were quite numerous because of year-round cheering. Also she prepared fundraisers, such as selling cookbooks, See's candies and stationary. In addition, Sandy was responsible for each assembly. This involved choosing a theme for each, announcing performers and keeping things running on time.

Summing up the year for all three, Tami stated, "We'll never forget the 12:00 skits at JKT'd. But the best thing of all was having such wonderful people to work with."

As a sub-division of the Drill Team, the Flags still participated in the Spring show and all other Drill Team events. At summer camp their new spirit was boosted by their first award. As the smallest team in competition, four veteran members captured 2nd place. When half-time season began, new light weight flags aided the groups' showmanship, In January the four veteran members traveled to Arroyo High School with their same routine, "A Fifth of Bethoven". Against stiff rivalry they won fifth place. Later, the entire team prepared for other competitive events using the song "Yankee Doodle".

early hours; advantageous for drill team

Rising before the sunrise, curler-headed girls were seen struggling with books, clothes and sleepiness in an attempt to make it to El Modena by 7 AM. These girls also sacrificed Tuesday evenings, many weekends and alot of physical effort to be on Drill Team.

Before the season began, they attended the United Spirit Association's Drill Team/Tall Flag/Banner Girl Camp on August 3-6. Once in Santa Barbara, the new members learned basic dance moves, while the veterans strived for perfection. Against stiff competition, the 78-79 precision Team captured a 1st place trophy in the small dance division with the combination song of Yankee Doodle/Dance Dance Dance. Continuing the success of all the marching units, Drill Team brought home another 1st place win at the Western Field Competition sponsored by Orange High School.

On January 26, the group traveled to Disneyland for their annual march down "Main Street". Other such parades included National City and the May Festival. Throughout parade practice, the group prepared for their annual Spring Show production presented on March 22 and 23. Eddi Money's song, "Two Tickets To Paradise," provided the theme for the show which revolved around travel. Because the show was held weeks earlier than previous, years more work was involved.

Marching Band was acutely affected by Proposition 13. Previously the band bus transportation had been supplied by the A.S.B. and the District. But this year more fund raisers supplemented their budget. Taking over the annual Swap Meet and a popular Henco candle sale provided the money needed for travel to distant competitions.

Despite a funding handicap, the band brought forth a well rehearsed half-time field show. For better crowd appeal they set the pace to popular Beatles' tunes. On the evening of October 28 after an unsuccessful attempt at the Western States Field Competition, the group discovered they had won a 1st place award during a contest at Anaheim Stadium earlier that day.

"Most people don't realize the time it takes learning to play an instrument. Perfecting the music and marching in complicated patterns is not an easy task," commented Band President Jennifer Wade. In order to achieve their goals, practice began at 7 AM each morning.

All the bands, excluding the marching unit, suffered numerous revisions. The Percussion Ensemble, and the Concert, Symphonic, and Stage Bands faced several second semester difficulties. However, the instrumental music sections still played at all the regular functions. Several of the groups were reduced in size. Only five percussionists remained in the second period class when the other drummers were forced to take required courses. Fourth period became an exclusive orchestra class consisting of six string players. "The winds were growing bored, so Mr. Fox allowed them to transfer out," explained cello player Donna Semaza.

Concert Band ran more smoothly. As in past years, they received recognition and were televised at six Athletes In Action basketball games at the Anaheim Convention Center. The group also performed at the Christmas Assembly. Rich Taylor received the honored part-playing a cafeteria tray (which simulated the crack of a horse whip in the song "Sleigh Ride") Concert Band also provided music for the Drill Team Spring Show in March and graduation in June. On April 1st a scholarship concert with the choirs raised money to help out the future college students of the two groups.

Less concerts were performed by the Stage Band, which specialized in "Big Band Jazz". Lack of time to compile such a band appeared to be the major cause behind the setback.

These specialized group's first concert was held in El Modena's Gymnasium. It featured the combined High School, Jr. High and Elementary School Honor Bands. Both interested parents and District dignitaries were entertained. "Musically the year went well and the trombone section was greatly improved," said Matt Anderson.

For many senior couples, the '78 Coronation Dance became a homecoming dance. This Christmas festivity returned to its former location at Golden West College. Previously, the Girls League sponsors felt the facilities were too cramped and moved the dance Fullerton Junior College. However, this year the Fullerton attenders made the push which returned the formal to the Huntington Beach area. "It made more sense to have the dance near the better restaurants on the coast. Besides, it provided a romantic atmosphere," expressed Girls League Treasurer, Diana Lane.

Planning for Coronation was complicated by struggles over things other than the location. Between the C.I.F. playoffs and Winter Recess, December 9th became the only feasible Saturday to hold this "girl-ask-guy" event. At 11PM that evening, the band "Taxi" ceased playing, the crowd hushed and everyone anticipated the announcement of the King and Queen. Excitement broke out among the court members as Randy Bauer and Kathy Barrett accepted their royal titles. Selection of the princes was by the Girls League members, while the princesses were selected by the Basketball and Wrestling teams.

Traditionally each couple is expected to bring a Christmas gift for a needy child. Again the spirit of giving was present when well over a hundred gifts were placed around the evergreen tree.

new director maintains standards

After ten years as Choir Director, Mr. Dennis Houser resigned from the District. A veteran director, Mr. Fred Stoufer, from Laguna High, was appointed to fill his position. Once here, Mr. Stoufer maintained the El Modena Music Department's standards, and hoped to take the choirs on a coastal tour. "My pupils are nice and have the right attitudes necessary to produce fine singing groups," commented Mr. Stoufer.

The three "backbone" groups, were Concert Choir, Women's Concert Choir, and Sophomore Ensemble. Larger than any other singing group, was the Concert Choir, which performed twice on campus during the Christmas Season. They also attended a festival at Chapman College, the Canyon Festival, and Shubert Mass, Inc. (a major work). The Concert Choir had between seventy and ninety students participating, with this year being their first with major work orchestrations. "Everyone is happier and the students are very capable of handling more difficult works." explained Mr. Stoufer.

Sophomore Ensemble was the only semester group. After the students "learned the ropes", they were split up among the other choirs, which enabled them to participate in more performances.

Increased special attention was given to Woman's Concert Choir, because only seven girls remained in the class second semester. Each girl was individually instructed once a week to improve her pitch, retenation, reconasion, and teacher-student relationships, as well. The girls mainly sang pop tunes, while working with vocal technique. Mr. Brian Fox enjoyed working with the Woman's Concert Choir, this being his sixth year in that position.

Resulting from the funding cuts of Proposition 13, the Vocal Music Department was forced to raise their own money. They needed to raise enough for buses to their various concerts and for an accompanist. The group had to raise approximately $300.00 a month just to break even. Some of the money was provided by the donations for their performances, which averaged from $20.00 to $50.00. To supplement the donations, the department sold stationary. This effort earned the department approximately $300.00.

For the more advanced choral students, Woman's Ensemble, Vocal Jazz and Beauty Shop Quartet provided excellent opportunities to fully develop talents. The Woman's Ensemble performed at various festivals, including Chapman College, Canyon, and Major Works where they performed Schubert's "Mass in C".

Representing the best singers on campus, the Chamber Singers travelled to the Pasadena and Chapman College Festivals. They were also assigned to many businessmen's functions during the holiday season. Christmas festivities also found them caroling at the home of District Superintendent Dr. Donald W. Ingwerson and many rest homes.

Vocal Jazz continued performing for church organizations, festivals, and concerts. The group was also featured in the Vanguard Talent Show and the Drill Team Spring Show.

Finally, a new group of girls formed a quartet to replace the Barber Shop Quartet members who graduated in 1978. They performed for many woman's organizations and campus crowds. "We felt it was about time that females got some recognition for quartet singing. In order to accomplish our goals long practices were held during our spare time," remarked soprano Stephanie Beavon.

White faces with multiple expressions could be seen at schools throughout Orange. Jordan Elementary and Santiago Junior High were entertained by the Mime Troupe, who performed improvisations and skits. Other shows included the Sugar Ray Robinson Fund and the Christmas Assembly. In March, the members shared the history and techniques of mime.

Before the year began, tryouts were held. Alumni members selected six people to complete the 1978-1979 troupe. They were judged on facial expressions and body control. At their regularly scheduled twice a week (nightly) rehearsal, the troupe practiced make-up techniques and scenes from skits.

Aspiring actors and actresses joined Thespian Troupe 3176 through their efforts in various plays and performances of the Drama Department. "Being in Thespians is a real honor at El Modena. It shows a total dedication and interest in acting," commented Cathy McAdams.

ART COUNCIL
For Both Artist and Patron

Art Council holds no exclusiveness about having to be in an art class. It was open to anyone who enjoyed art. In order to encourage artistic talent and attitudes, the club held many fundraisers. An annual Christmas sale earned over $300 when many symbolistic and custom-made gifts were sold. They also participated in the EMHS Band sponsored Swap Meet and the carnival in March. In May, the Art Council conducted a scholarship portfolio review and presented the winner with a $400 scholarship. Advisor-Mrs. Donna Banning, President-Rick Franklin, Vice President-Dina Leonhardt, Secretary-Randi Dorrenbacher.

BACKPACKING CLUB
Backpackers go Hawaiian

The Backpacking Club ventured to many varied places. They started by traveling to the Sierras in October; a total of seventeen people went and made it through the hiking exposition. In December the club had planned to hike up into Idlywild but "sub-zero" temperatures kept them away. Instead (CONTINUED ON PAGE 59)

FRENCH CLUB

Group has international taste

The fifteen members in French Club involved themselves with many fundraisers and educational activities. An old idea was borrowed from Santiago Junior High School as Toblerone chocolate was sold during November and December. A profit of $250 was raised by the group, through this seemingly popular product. French Club requested $100 from the Senate to rent the film "A Tale of Two Cities," but when they received only $25 they decided to continue their tradition and dine at the "Brassiere" which specializes in French cuisine. Other events they sponsored were Carnation Sales, Coronation, Mother/Daughter Tea, and Sadie Hawkins on April 16th. An event held annually was Date Dad. Three hundred fathers and daughters attended the festivities at the Balboa Pavillion on November 16th. After dinner, the couples competed in the "Date-Dad-Game", the boards interpretation of the "Newlywed Game". Dancing followed, with 50's style music, which made the dads feel "more at home". MODEL UNITED NATIONS CLUB

Simulation is a learning experience

Representing the nations of the world, students simulated the United Nations. Their job involved writing resolutions to universal problems and voting on questions from world issues, to whether or not roll should be taken. Model United Nations members attended a convention February 23 and 24 at UC Riverside representing Egypt and Botswana. The Riverside Conference was not all work, as the students attended the annual dance and awards ceremony. Selling fruit cakes, candy sticks, and chocolate in conjunction with the International Student Exchange Club aided their funds. the stories, poetry, photography and artwork of students on campus. An interest in the humanities and communities involvement, the group made several field trips. Before their Christmas ''get together'', they viewed a modern art display at the Newport Harbor Art Museum. This was followed by a session of caroling for the elderly residents of ''Casa Orange''. In order to raise the large sum of money necessary to publish the ''Pionex'', the rookie ''Avitally'' members sponsored two large fundraisers; a game booth at the Carnival and an Easter egg sale,—both supplemented the club's budget. KEY CLUB
Services provided despite problems

As the Junior Kuawanis Club on campus, the Key Club was an all male service group. The first of their major services simulated the Big Brother program. Each member befriended a single parent child and took him to various amusement parks and activities. In April, the boys met with other schools Key Club members at an annual convention to discuss projects and goals. The Sweetheart dance generally sponsored by El Modena Junior Kuwanas met several obstacles. The most prevalent obstacle was the conflicting dates of other dances. Because the dance was constantly rescheduled it was never held. The band was that hired grew impatient and had other obligations. Despite this one setback, Key Club still provided its many services. "S" CLUB

Sponsored by the Soroptomists, a club for women in executive positions, "S" Club provided services for the school and the community. Some of these services were contributions, such as $100 to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Drive, in September. Later, the group adopted a family and bought canned goods and a trukey with all the trimmings to help them have a good Thanksgiving. "Operation Santa Claus", was a project that provided foster children with Christmas gifts. $60 was raised for this cause. They also acted as hostesses during events like Back to School and College Nights, the faculty awards in June, and for the families of the football players and coaches, to celebrate their C.I.F. victory. The reamining funds were used to benefit others in the community. SKI CLUB

"Snow flakes" compete

Representing all the ski enthusiasts at El Modena, ski club traveled by bus to Park City, Utah. Students stayed at the Rodeway Inn and attended an opening dinner at Brigham Young University. Group lessons aided in the improvement of the racing, ballet, and freestyle abilities. The better skiers formed a team and competed against West High and Pacifica. Pete Trabucco, Christi Greene, Kurt Hazard, and Brent Schultz captured the first place trophy. Individual competitors included Janet Wells who placed first and Darryl McClaskey who placed third. "Overall the trip was a big success. Everything went well, except for Kevin Carlson's broken arm, and the six hour delay when the bus ran out of gas," commented Darryl McClakey. Members also planned short trips to Snow Summit and to Mammoth on the 8th of March. Advisor- Mr. Steve Altman.

WRESTLING CLUB

With the help of the statisticians, the Wrestling Club brought the athletes closer together. "Not only did we become good friends, but each member wanted to do his best for the team," said Dave Rosza. Activities outside the meets included golfing, bowling, and car washes. The club raised its funds through an October candy sale and concession stands at every home meet. The Stat Girls were a major asset to the team. They kept the scores and recorded if it was a pin or not. "All of the statistics were very important to the wrestlers. They really appreciated us," said Stat Girl Joy Basham. Less obvious than other campus groups, "unofficial clubs" and booster organizations played a major role in school involvement. Not only did the booster clubs support the students, but the groups such as "Peer Smoking" provides health information.

Information about the hazards of smoking was sent to elementary schools by "PEER SMOKING". Peer smoking was a group of science students who volunteered to go to elementary schools to emphasize the hazards of smoking. At schools, such as La Veta, Jordan, Esplanade, and Prospect they set up posters, visual aids and used personal experiences to show the children about smoking. They also provided a third grade program with puppets and films to better relate to their age level.School Nurse Mrs. Darlene Butler said, "It was a good experience to work with children and hopefully influence their future behavior attitudes." Some of El Modena's ambassador volunteers were; Mike McHenry, Becky Sanders, Sylvia Hettich, Molly Richards, Elena Kim, Andrea Sloan, Andrea Menke and Diane Morris.

The primary function of the FOOTBALL BOOSTER CLUB was fundraising. Their purpose was to assist El Modena H.S. football athletic activities through moral, physical and financial support. They worked through the coordination of Principal John Ikerd. Faculty Head Coach was Bob Lester, Pres.-Steve Bauer. Other members of the board included Don Verburg, Jim Gibbs, Roy Tumser, Jack Frasco and Ray Niez.

The BAND BOOSTER CLUB was a group of dedicated band parents. Counselor and parent John Anderson said "I have been president for two years and I love doing it." The main idea of the booster club was to give the students more support along with that of monetary support. To show the band that the parents were proud; they were at every halftime show and competition, as well as parades. They provided much of the money the band needed for travel. This financial support was maintained by rummage sales and concession stands at the carnival and at baton twirling competitions. Finally, the booster club sponsored a 2nd annual "Fun day at Knotts" day on April 21st and 22nd.

This year's DRILL TEAM BOOSTER CLUB started off with a get together tea in the cafeteria. The new girls and their parents were greeted and informed on rules and uniform care. The booster club raised money through bake sales at Christmas and Valentines Day, they also sold maroon sweat jackets for $10.50. At Christmas, they sponsored a banquet called "Dinner is Served". The parents involved attended the performances and parades, and helped everyone get dressed and put their make-up on. inspiration promotes journalistic style

The new advisor of the Guidon, Mrs. Janet Hayes was very nervous about taking over the Guidon. "I had never assembled a high school newspaper staff before. However, with the help of our exceptional Editor, Scott Christenson, we pulled the Guidon together. The Co-editor, Mark Theissen also helped in getting the Guidon compiled. It has proven to be a fulfilling experience," remarked Mrs. Hayes.

Mrs. Hayes' philosophy is that all students in the class are "reporters". For example, each student must write, and all students must know the total process of the paper inside-out.

In order to publish a 10-page paper, the Guidon Staff stressed the selling of more ads. Throughout the year they featured articles that appeared to have a more journalistic style. One about the vanishing clubs on campus, sparked an interest in the student body. Events, such as the C.I.F. play-offs and the arson fire in the attendance office also provided interesting material.

Keeping with the yearbook theme "changes", the 1978-1979 Escena Staff began a seven month period of extensive work. With only three returning members, the group put in extra hours learning the "basics" through experience.

"Our editor, Susan Roberts, really came through for us. With her knowledge and patience she pulled the loose strings of the book together," remarked Mrs. Melinda Smith. Not a rookie herself, Mrs. Smith had previously taught memory book and photo classes at El Rancho Junior High. Other veteran staffers were Photo Editor Jim Ludden and Activities Editor Lori Vallandigham.

Increased production costs and decreased time to turn out pages created added difficutlies. "People were not aware of the tremendous job we faced. . . even the students in the class were in awe at the professionalism they were expected to obtain" explained Editor Susan Roberts. The tedious process consisted of pre-planning every page, interviewing and re-interviewing, writing body copy, captioning each picture correctly, and finalizing all rough layouts. In addition, pictures had to be requested, taken, processed by Albert & James, and proportioned since they are the major component of every annual.

Second semester brought many surprises. While over half the staff left, a new influx of dedicated workers transferred in, thus aiding the remaining staffers. Also, a long standing "feud" was ended when the Escena and Guidon pooled their efforts and shared a candy booth at the Carnival.

Students had fewer opportunities to attend informal dances because there were fewer informal dances held. ASB President Patty Colin attributed the decrease to the apathy of some, but not all, of the clubs.

The Hi Dance was postponed from September until October. This traditional dance was held to welcome back old students and to give new students a chance to become better acquainted with other students and the school.

Due to some unforeseen circumstances, the Key Club's Sweetheart Dance was eventually cancelled. Originally to be held in November, the club's members postponed it because of the closeness of Homecoming and Coronation. The date for the dance was changed so often; the arrangement with the band they had booked fell thru. Thus, no dance was held.

Next, the pep squad decided to forego the annual Be Bop Dance. Instead, they sponsored a Disco Dance. This dance was held to honor the football team, whose members were admitted free.

How did students and faculty members find a total change to the normal routine of the classroom? By attending the variety of assemblies coordinated by Mr. Ron Gardon, Mrs. Barbara Clark, and Pep Commissioner Sandy Scott. Because of the promoting of the CIF football season, there were more assemblies than ever.

Basketball assemblies were not as emphasized as the previous football assemblies. Mr. Gardon blamed this on the "screening of the new cheerleaders going on at the same time. Also, the old cheerleaders seemed to be suffering from 'senioritis'."

For a change of pace from the regular pep assemblies, some outside help was brought in. A multimedia production was brought from "Fat City". The theme was "We Are The Champions", showing that everyone is a champion in their own way. A similiar assembly, "Photographically Speaking", was also shown. This was a slide presentation and narration by Kodak. A new game/assembly was held at lunch in December. This game resembled the "Newlywed Game", but used ex-couples instead of ones currently going steady.

Although there was some controversy on the contents of some assemblies, "The students never lacked enthusiasm", claimed Junior Paula Marsin.

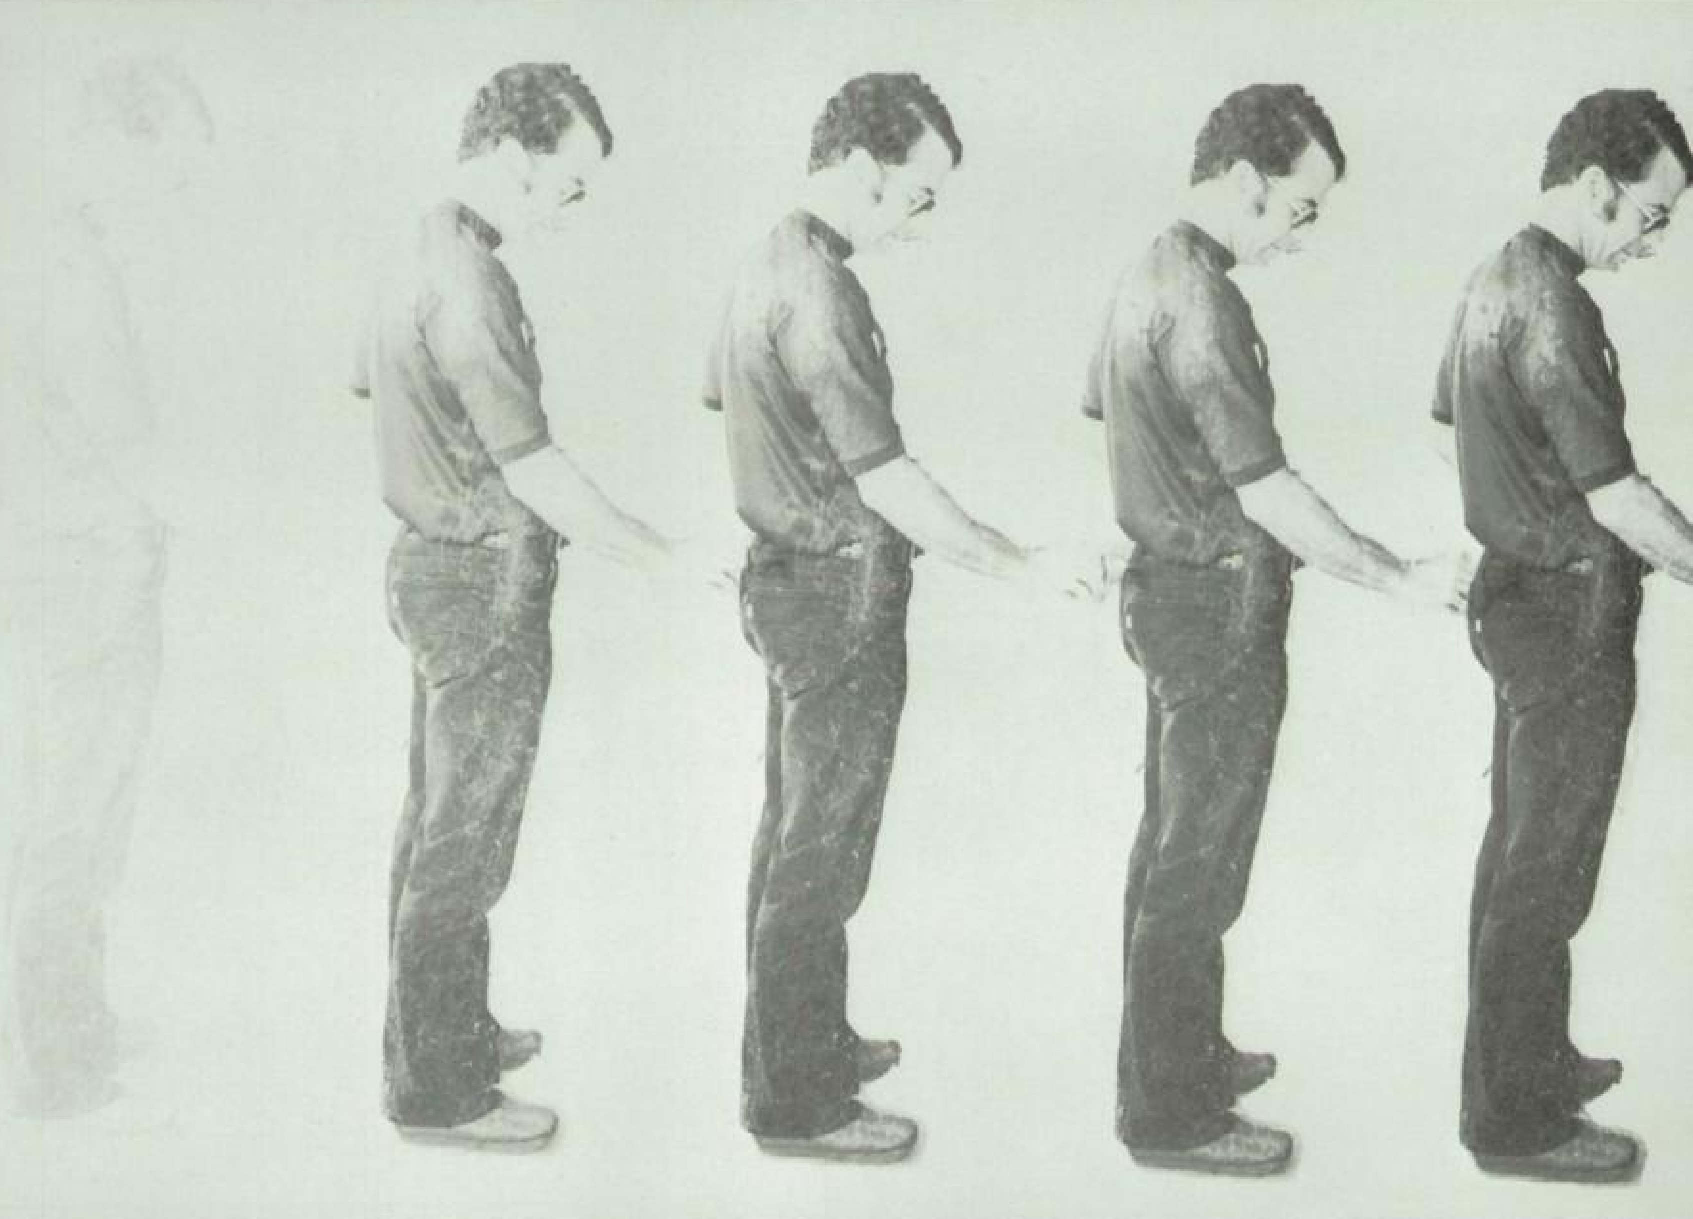
academics

Over the past three years, El Modena has had several major changes; changes not only in student attitudes and administration, but in the entire field of academics, as well. State rebudgeting and new proficiency tests, were two of the major changes.

Because of state rebudgeting, courses were cut, creating larger classes. One of the worst hit, was State Requirements. The behind-the-wheel section of the class was eliminated, with the final compromise being sessions after school and on Saturdays.

The second reformation, was the importance of proficiency examinations. These examinations required students to pass reading, math, science, and consumer education tests, before they could be granted a diploma. If, as a senior, any one of the exams had not been passed, a certificate of completion was handed out, which meant that the student had attended class enough not to fail. Once given, the student had the choice of accepting it, or going back to school long enough to pass the tests he had previously failed. Because of this, classes were taught with an emphasis on basic fundamentals; reading, writing, and arithmetic.

In light of all of the changes which had taken place, the instructors were posed a question: as to what time period they would like to live in, and why.



loss of dean of students felt- - assistant principals pick up slack

Some people may have wondered why there are two assistant principals. The reason was due to El Modena's student enrollment. More than one assistant principal was needed to handle the job. Since the loss of Dean Joanne Foland, disciplinary matters had to be handed to the counselors, with the excess going to the assistant principals. The two assistant principals, Mr. Neil Smith and Mr. Phil Stock, both shared the responsibilities of off and on campus supervision, and supervised and evaluated the teachers. Both were directly responsible to Mr. Ikerd, and met with him at least twice a week. Their feelings on the school year?

"El Modena is a great school with a wonderful student body. We have had a great year," answered Mr. Stock.

"This school year has been the best ever for me. I enjoy the friendly cooperation between students and staff. There is no better high school!" stated Mr. Smith.

shift in discipline is positive

SCHOO
INTERNATIONAL

Modifications characterized the job of counseling. Since the removal of the dean and assistant dean, counselors have been put completely in charge of handling student discipline, from referrals and suspensions, to tardies and absences.

Though somewhat more work, changes in responsibility for discipline were seen as positive ones. In the past, students were sent to the dean for disciplinary actions, the attendance for tardies and absences, and the counselors for educational help and personal problems. If a student was sent to the counselor to be dropped from a class because he was failing, the counselor might think it was because the class was too hard for the student. The counselor may not have known that the student was truant to the class more than half the semester. With this new system, counselors were now handling all aspects of student problems, and they had a much better view of the proper way to handle a particular problem.

Along with positive responses, there were often negative ones. Counselors feared that in-coming students, who did not see their counselor as a person to turn to for help, may loose trust in them and think of them only as a disciplinary force—rather than a personal friend to go to with their problems.

When asked if she foresaw any major changes in the near future, Mrs. Nancy Murray stated, "The trend is to de-emphasize personal counseling (with cuts in school funds). The feeling is that schools are here to educate, and student problems should be handled by community agencies. These are not my personal feelings, but it is a trend I see happening in the near future."

clerical losses felt

The loss of five co-workers did not stop the other remaining secretaries from getting their jobs done. The jobs that were left vacant were spread out evenly amongst all those who were still working either with the counselors or in the administration building. spirited few compensate for low teacher morale

As in the past, many faculty members continued to support the "crazy" activities of the student body. However, according to Mrs. Janet Hayes, Journalism teacher, "After being gone from El Modena seven years, I noticed a decline in teacher enthusiasm."

"Many teachers were low on morale last spring, and this year hasn't seen too much improvement," commented Mr. Jack Burke. The reason? He continued, "Many of us are worried about our jobs for next year. If the state doesn't provide the needed funding by March 13, 1979, letters will probably go out again."

In spite of this, when Spirit Week came around, teachers who were not considered to have an abundance of spirit, came out "of their closets", and joined in on the festivities. A few even went so far as to dress up, themselves.

new machines and donated engines— students practice on the "real thing"

There were many additions to the Industrial Arts Department last year. New equipment was added to Auto Shop and Drafting, which aided the department as a whole.

The new balance machine, added to the auto shop, was the largest of the pieces of machinery received. Other pieces included a milling machine, a chasis dyno, an infra-red machine, and a tune up tester (which helps in smog control). In Auto I, ten engines were donated for the class to practice on.

A new program was introduced into drafting this year, in which three level classes were taught at once. This allowed everyone to work at their own pace. Besides this, a reference library was added, which benefited all industrial arts classes. The number of girls enrolled in industrial arts classes also increased over previous years. They do not know why the increase happened but they were "delighted" to see it.

proficiency a must in consumer education

Home Economics, a class generally thought of as traditionally female, has become increasingly "popular" with boys, as well. Although this year the electives were limited by state rebudgeting, males still enrolled in Basic Foods, Nutrition, and Consumer Education.

The Clothing Department also went through several "changes". No longer did classes strictly emphasize sewing skills. Many girls modeled their own creations and entered their handiwork in different contests throughout the nation, such as the National Wool Contest.

A two hour course, which teachers hope will be adopted, is Parenting, Pre-school children and their parents would be "supplied" from the area immediately surrounding the school, and would give students a first hand look at what it means to be a parent in today's world.

With the increasing trend towards later marriage, more students are finding Consumer Education more valuable in preparation for life on their own, after "leaving the nest".

fine art taught in all art department classes

The Fine Arts Department has evolved over the past few years into a progressive department. It consisted of Art, Ceramics, Jewelry, and Photography. New to the ceramics department, was a kiln, which dried and finished the glaze on ceramic works. Many of these "masterpieces" were exhibited.

In the jewelry division, gem setting was taught for the first time. This complex facet fo the jewelry department allowed students to discover the true "art" of jewelry making. However, creative arts did not deal only with ceramics and jewelry; conventional art was taught also.

Art was taught in three different levels: Art I, II, and III. Art I covered the basics of color. While Art II adventured farther into the world of drawing. Art III was the advanced art class.

composition skills stressed

Within the last three school years, the state made it mandatory for students to pass a variety of proficiency tests. Students graduating in 1979 were required to pass a composition test.

With the passing of these state laws, came a redefining of goals. According to Mrs. Nancy Illo, a Sophomore English teacher, "Students were concerned about passing the proficiency tests. Our department was on its way back to stressing basic English skills."

Not all classes were directed to basic skills, however. Mass Media, Short Story, Novel, Journalism, and Annual were all classes offered which stressed variety as well. With the growing concern about English testing and the variety of English classes offered, the English Department was on the increase, and the students were "finally" beginning to understand basic fundamentals.

readiness offers career selection

The Business Education Department expanded, and is expected to grow even larger in the years to come. Students began to realize that they would need basic business skills to "survive" in the "real world". Among the wide variety of business courses offered were; typing, accounting, business law, basic business skills, and stenoscript.

The skills offered at high school level helped prepare young adults for a possible career in business. Future occupations in the business field included accountant, secretary, stock broker, or a position in management. With the increasing interest in business, the department will probably continue to expand.

increased size, decreased funding lead to enlarged math classes

Increased class size was one of the most noticeable changes in the Math Department. There were no longer small classes for remedial students, in fact, the classes almost doubled. These classes were held in the math lab.

There was an increase in the number of math teachers due to the expanded enrollment in class sizes. This year there were twelve teachers teaching from one to five periods of math. There were forty-seven sections of math compared to last years thirty-five sections.

Due to reduced funding, the Math Department's aides were dropped. This resulted in teachers having more work to do and not having time for more personal student-teacher relationships.

With the addition of one new director and two new classes, the Music Department continued its diversified program. There were many changes within the Music Department. Mr. Fred Stoufer, the new choir director, brought new hopes and techniques, such as new fund raising ideas.

The Symphonic Band, directed by Mr. Brian Fox, added a new class, Orchestra. This class consisted of eight band members and seven string players. The addition of the strings made it possible to do different types of musical arrangements.

The drummers from band also had their own class, during second period, and it helped them. As Arden Edgell, one of the drummers, stated, "The class has given me more self-confidence and enthusiasm than ever."

history enrollment high—group participation stifled

The department of history had no noticeble changes The general consensus of the History Department staff members did not allow for any significant changes in their own respective classes. "Classes remained fairly large," explained Mrs. Antoinette Hoetzl, "It was hard to make any major changes." Group participation projects were almost eliminated because of the number of students enrolled in each class. With such a large enrollment, the lack of total participation persisted.

Students in the Orange Unified School District were required to take twenty-five credits of history. Sophomore students were enrolled in a year of Modern World History; juniors, in a year of United States History; and seniors had their choice of a semester of American Democracy or Comparitive Political Systems.

The staff members could not predict what would happen if class sizes continued to increase. They feared that classes would continue to remain large— making it nearly impossible to cut the teacher-student ratio.

"odd" things taught in science classes

Bones, frogs, diggings, and waves were some of the "odd" things that the Science Department's courses covered. Students learned about the biological, physical, and chemical changes of animals, vegetables, and minerals. They worked in labs, at tables, and out in the field, searching for their own answers.

The teachers that taught the science courses were, as Mr. Paul Collins described them, "nine strong individuals who worked together to solve its problems. The teachers worked as a team."

One department, biology, taught on a survey course. It remained, basically, a college preparatory course. The three biology teachers; Mr. Collins, Mrs. Gwen Chapman, and Mrs. Ann Truex; worked under a system of team work, in which they cooperated in an arrangement of scheduling tests, quizzes, worksheets, homework, and a special make-up for a stolen test. Mr. Collins commented on the improvement in student's cooperation and scholastic achievements, he said, "Teaching here is fun to me. I like coming to work everyday."

popularity increases- latin reinstated

Foreign Language continued to increase in popularity creating a calling for a more flexible and diversified department. Many students wished to take foreign language classes, but could not fit it into their schedule due to the greater number of required courses needed to meet graduation credits. Consequently, class size declined some, but independent study opportunities grew to accomodate the overflow.

Latin, a class which had previously been eliminated due to a lack of interest, made its come back into the regular curriculum after a year's absence, with eleven students in Latin I, and two students in Latin II. The other foreign language classes, French, German and Spanish, also enlarged in overall enrollment.

One reason for the increase, was the need to meet college and university entrance requirements, which forced some college-bound students to take a second look at foreign languages.

Taking a much needed pause, cafeteria staffers, Flora Scott, and Myrle Weick catch their breath before lunch begins. 5. Mountains of cookies are baked daily by Evelyn Decker to accomodate the "sweet tooth" of El Modena students. 6. Troubleshooting the area, Head Custodian, Howard Reinderknecht, cruises around El Modena. 7. Last minute preparations are made for busy nutrition lines by Alma Kirkpatrick and Dela Meter.

unnoted, "invisible" staffs remain in the background

Directly or indirectly, the cafeteria and custodial staffs effected every person on the campus. Without the cafeteria staff, nutritious hot lunches would be non-existant. The loss of the custodial staff would be detrimental both to student health and campus appearance. Even though these service staff members' efforts often were not recognized, their contributions should not have gone unnoted.

Six cafeteria workers, starting their day early at seven o'clock in the morning, were responsible for creating, preparing, and serving hot meals at lunch on 170 school days. Even with a greater influx of students than is normal, Mrs. Myrle Weick, cafeteria manager, noted, "The students were more courteous and respectful, saying 'thank-you' and 'please' when served."

Morning and evening custodial staffs kept the campus functioning efficiently. Their job was hampered by a five man lay-off due to financial cut-backs. Head Custodian Howard Reinderknecht explained, "The staff was under-manned and could not function as efficiently as before." Support and cooperation of the students and the teaching staff was sought to aid their mounting work load.

"haven't had enough, eh?"

Throughout the year there were people, who, even though they were not paid for doing so, carried out their everyday jobs one step further. They became club advisors, class sponsors, supportive fans, and active participants.

The reasons behind such actions can be questioned. Why did they do it: Perhaps Janitor Cecil Watson explained it best:

"When you are a part of the school it feels like a family... no matter if you are big or small, a janitor or the principal; you are what you make your school. When your school loses; you lose, and when it wins; you win. I want to be a part and do my part. When you take part, you feel just like the boys and girls. Besides, you could be helping someone —that's just that I want to do...be of some help. No matter if you are on the team, a cheerleader, or fan, it is important that you do what you can to help your school because your school is what the students and faculty make of it."

special education program— geared for individual instuction

Geared towards individual instruction, the Special Education Program was designed to meet and accomodate each of the student's own capacity to learn independent living skills. The Learning Disability Group (LDG), taught by Mr. Mark Rona, could profit by taking regular courses. Miss Louise Mason and Mr. Jim Veit, the other teachers in the program, taught the Limited Learner (LL). LL students could not profit in the same way.

Due to a shortage of funds (and with the addition of eleven more students), Special Education's biggest change was the loss of two courses—cooking and auto shop.

Laurie,
It has been nice having you in p.e. relaxed—

fewer seniors

Was P.E. more relaxed because there were fewer seniors? Mr. Glen Lukenbill thought so. He felt that without them, the underclassmen didn't feel so intimidated as they played the various sports offered ... such as racquetball.

decathlon team members excel in separate areas

The 1978 Orange County Decathlon, was held on November 28, at Estancia High School in Costa Mesa. Although El Modena did not come away with top honors as in past years, the students did excel in separate divisions.

"We did especially well in the personal interviews," commented senior, Patty Colin.

"We could have done a better job overall, however, our reference resources did little to help; in fact, they hindered us. We had little support," added Ted O'Neill.

Winning awards were alternates John Nauss, who won a 3rd place in English Literature and Grammar, a 3rd in Fine Arts, a 2nd in Social Science, and a 3rd in Honor Division, and Teh Hathcock, who won a 3rd place in Home Living.

The team's advice for next year, was summed up by junior, John Nauss, in one word, "Study!".

candy sales aid scholarships—

time-honored societies enlarge

The National Honor Society, led by President Ann Dixon, started the 1978-1979 school year with fund raisers, the largest of which was the sale of candy. Many members came out and supported the N.H.S. in this event, with the final sum going to the Scholarship Fund, set up for two seniors, each receiving $250.00. The Parent-Faculty-Student-Organization, P.F.S.O., also matched this amount. Said Vice-President Andrea Sloan, "The candy sales successfully gained the funds we needed for the Scholarship Program."

The California Scholarship Federation, C.S.F., increased in size over previous years. As in N.H.S., only students with a grade point average of 3.5 or better were eligible, however, each applicant was screened before being accepted. Mr. Roy Grimshaw and Mrs. Connie Bridgman were co-sponsors while Dave Schickling was President, Mike McHenry was Vice-President, Cathy Bassett was Secretary, and Lorey Calvert was Treasurer. Other N.H.S. officers were Secretary Mike McHenry, and Treasurer Beth Lillywhite.

seniors

"We are great! We are fine! We're the class of '79!" was one of the chants that carried the current graduating class to the top. It was sung over and over again by " shazamed " sophomores, "The Greatest (junior) Class on Earth", and finally, by senior "Togas", whose power conquered Spirit week and the acclaimed spirit gun.

In the beginning, when the "road to glory" was not yet paved, the present upperclassmen entered high school at a time when many modifications were being made. The number of credits for graduation were upped from 200 to 210. Also, being the "guinea pigs" of education's move back to the 3 R's, they were handed several proficiency tests in composition, science, consumer education, reading and math; all which had to be passed before they would be allowed to graduate.

At the end of their junior year, they saw what came from the passage of Proposition 13—for the first time, summer school was cancelled. This created an occasional problem which was solved by the rearrangement of the coming year's schedules.

As seniors, the major changes came not for education, but for activities. Cheerleaders were elected for a whole year, instead of the customary nine months. Another threshold was crossed when a king, as well as a queen, was chosen for Homecoming.

Even with all the changes the seniors have gone through, they have remained like most graduating classes—yet, they stand alone.

Laurie,

Well you've really been a best friend. I'm just sorry we weren't as close our Senior year as we were our sophmore year. Its hard to believe that we're really finishing. I hope the best for you and you'll always be close in my heart. I wish you the best with Larry and if you get married don't forget I'm in the wedding. Keep in touch and feel free to call or come over. I'm really gonna miss you!

Love ya lots!
forever friend!
always!
Sandy!
Garcia!

The switch from Junior High to High School. . .every class has made "the big jump". The classes of 1980 and 1981 certainly had to. However, each individual student recieved a different impression of this event. For some, it meant increased freedom; to others, it meant heavier responsibilities. To everyone, it spelled a type of change.

Students, at the high school level, were allowed the freedom to choose electives that could possibly lead to a future career. The question, "What do I want to do with my life?" became a reality. Decisions had to be made. The life of the student was being placed into their own hands—slowly, with the guidance of parents, friends, and faculty, the student had to learn how to take control.

"tourist" tells all

"I want to travel!" How many times has it been said? For most people, it will remain a dream, but not for Mike McHenry. He has travelled across the United States, Asia, and Europe.

Mike's distant travels began in sixth grade when he and his brother, Mark, accompanied their father to Japan. A few people mistook them for pro-basketball players, even though they weren't very tall. After that visit, Mike went to Hong Kong. "I think," he commented, "that it was the dirtiest, most disgusting city I've ever been to ... I tripped over a dead body."

The European continent did not see Mike "until" the ninth grade. He visited England, France, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy. His favorite? "France!"

"collection of what!?!"

Collecting snakes has been a hobby of Bill Morales since he was twelve years old. He has accumulated some thirty snakes, ranging in deadliness from the harmless gopher snake to the poisonous rattler. In addition to these, he has two Columbian Redtail boa constrictors. The largest of the two spans some 45 inches and was purchased for $150.00. Bill maintains his reptile collection at home in a homemade cage of plywood, glass, and screen, and he plans to continue to collect these "slithery beasts" (one seen at right).

an "oasis" of skill

Everyone has heard of Michaelangelo, the famous sculptor, but has anyone heard of Jay Oasis?

Jay, a junior, is planning to be a sculptor when he is older. His first effort was destroyed when his father dropped it in the basement. His second attempt (shown left) shows his early exposure to comic books.

So serious is Jay, he plans to attend the Paris Institue of Art, under the tutilege of the Master Marcel D'Koo, during the summer.

For his next statue, Jay was planning to try to make one of Bob Dylan. "It could take up to four months to complete—but I know I'll enjoy doing it." added Jay.

Niel Corey is a bicycle enthusiast. Niel started bicycling because it was his only source of transportation. Last summer Niel and a friend rode to San Onofre and back, a round trip of over a hundred miles in one day. "We had one problem though, we got lost when we got to the Balboa Peninsula!" he laughed.

During Christmas vacation of 1977, Niel rode his bike to Lake Elsinore. "My next trip will be to Yosemite in the summer. Some of my friends from church are going to come along—it'll be a three week trip all total."

In the future, Niel plans to continue to bike ride and has already set his next goal—to tour the United States on two wheels.

1. During the special sophomore election assembly, candidate Susan Resetar gives her platform speech.

his head is in the clouds

Being high is nothing new to Rich Savitt. He is quite accustomed to a height of approximately seven feet off the ground—on stilts. But that height only pertains to his feet; when Rich stilt-walks, his head is actually over five feet above that, bringing it in the neighborhood of twelve feet.

Rich has not always been so "high", he first had to master the lower levels of his hobby before he could move on to "bigger and better things." He started stilt-walking at the age of ten and quickly mastered the basic fundamentals which allowed him to graduate to heights of four, then six feet.

His hobby led him along on a customary one-half mile walk every other day during the summer. With school in session, Rich finds time on the weekends to stay in shape, "It's a great exercise and I recommend it to anyone who thinks they might be interested."

running for fun

Who does anything just for the pure fun of doing it? Perhaps Dawn Balch (pictured right at Fred Kelly Stadium) does. "I enjoy running," she exclaimed, "I've been doing it for two years and I love it!"

Dawn loved her running so much that she would come at six o'clock in the morning just so she could run with the cross country team. She also ran after school, which brought her daily average to five miles. Dawn explained again, "I love the exercise!"

team prospect

Skateboard riding is popular with Sophomore Glenn Gaskey. Glenn first stepped on a skateboard in October of 1977; a few months later he decided to take his new found sport seriously. He learned different techniques necessary for a proficient skateboarder, such as bankriding, aerials (shown right), the grinder, and the rock walk. He hopes to put his "education" to a good use by trying to qualify for a skateboarding team.

For those people who would like to try skateboarding, Glenn commented, "It takes time to learn, but once you have, enjoy it—but don't go beyond your capabilities."

"gong show" dilemma

Needing money, tenth grader Darrel Gill decided to audition for the Gong Show. He had planned to play his guitar (at right) and sing. After his first audition, he heard nothing . . . so, he tried four more times.

At his second audition, the producers told him that he would be a substitute for an absent performer already scheduled for the show—however, everyone showed up. Darrel decided to give it one last try before he had to leave on vacation to Canada. The producers promised him he would be called back and he was . . . the only problem was that Darrel was in Canada!

Does Darrel plan to try again? "No way," he responded, "It's too much of a hassle!"

submerging hobby

Ever watch scuba divers on television and wonder what it was like? Next time just ask Sophomore Brian Adair, who is a fully certified diver.

In order to become certified, a diver must spend 30 hours in a pool and 30 hours in class. At the end of the course, a final test is given which covers everything from types of fish to types of tides.

Brian and his entire family dive frequently at South Catalina Island, which Brian says is "one of the best diving spots on the West Coast."

A major problem, as Brian sees it, is pollution under the sea. "There's a lot of trash. Its not unusual to see fish living in rusty beer cans," said Brian.

1. On Sophomore Spirit Day, Barbara Pyles and Julie Juliano show their spirit by dressing as pirates.

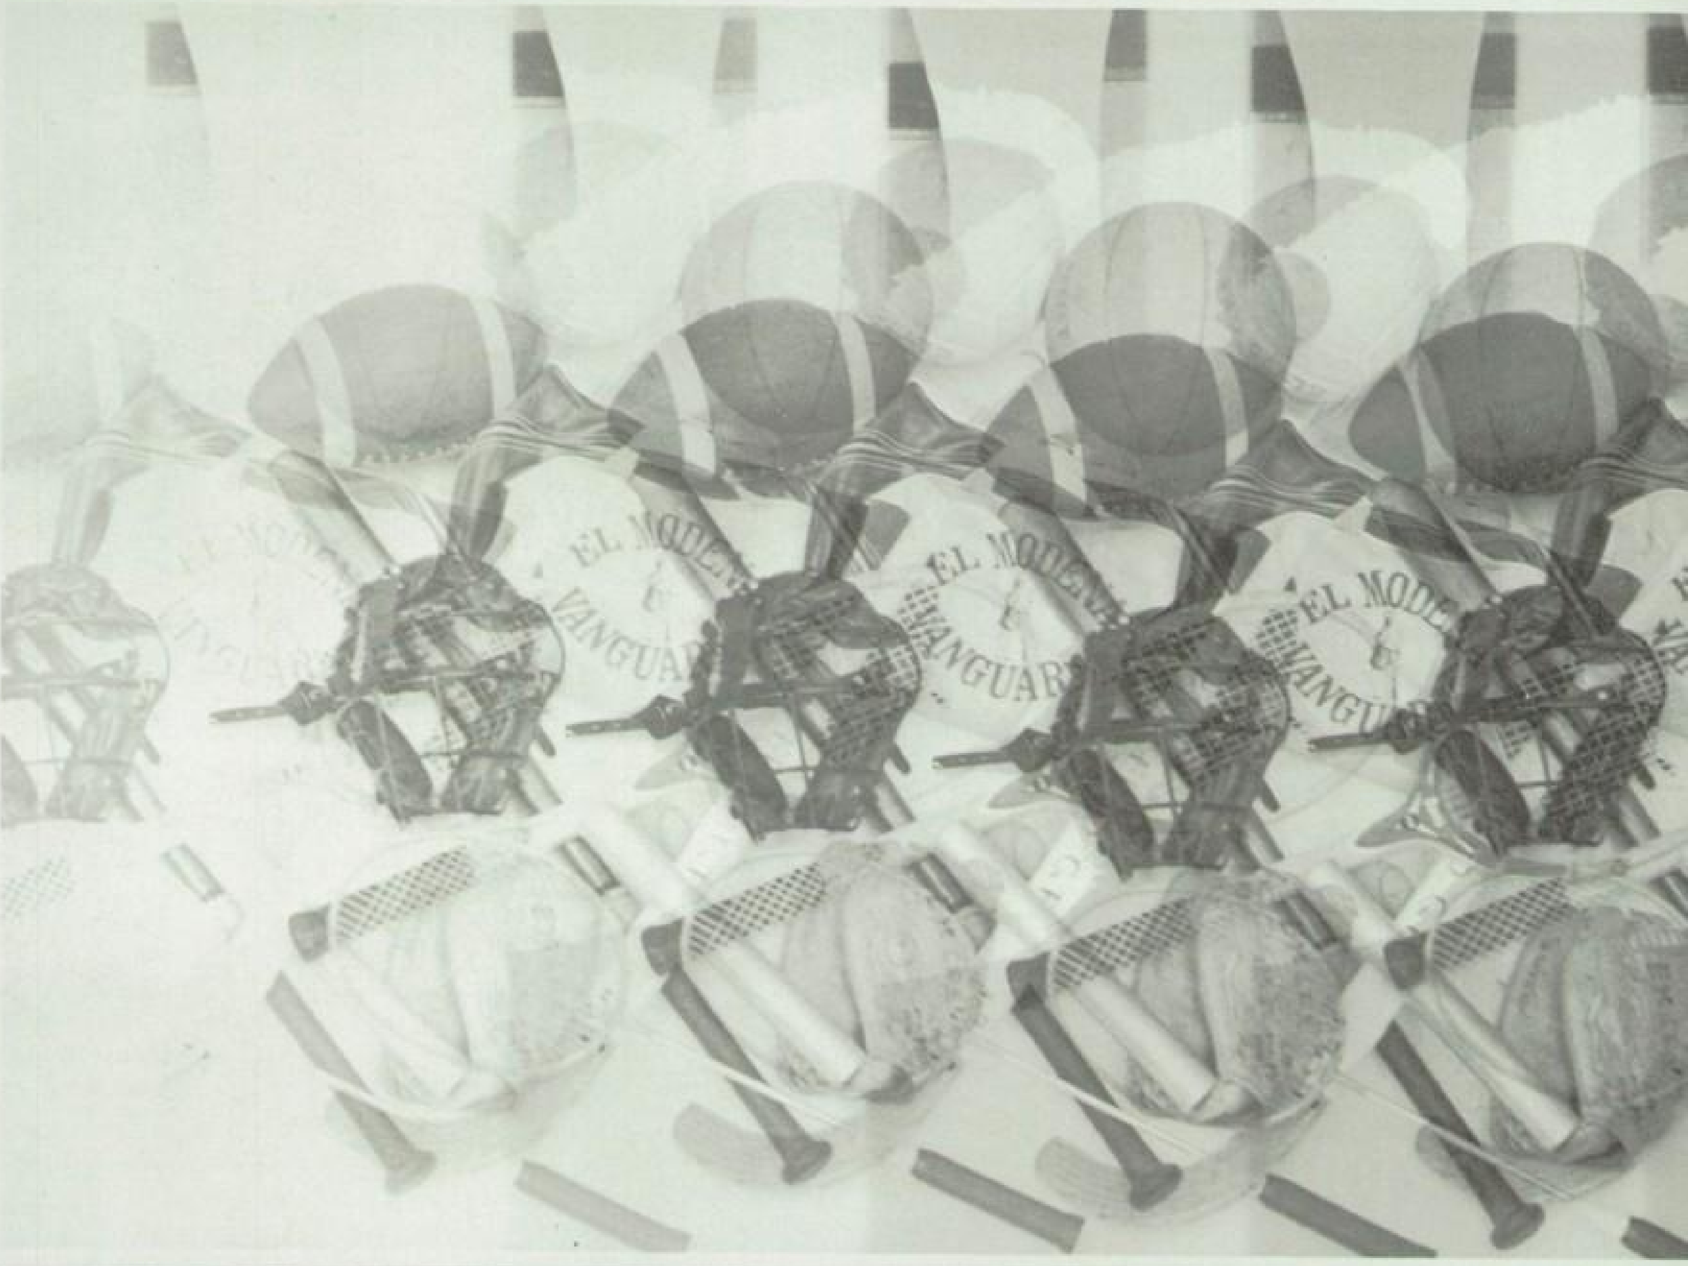
There were many changes this year in the way sports were run. Not only did the athlete participate in the sport of his choice, but he also had to realize the responsibility of his decision for choosing that sport. During the summer of '79, the football players had to pay $25.00 each to have pre-season summer practice. Also a first, the spectator had to pay to observe any of the girls indoor athletic events. Responsibilities were not only for the athlete. El Modena's obligations included a new way of handling profits. In the previous years, every school would get the revenue that was brought in with each profitable game. But this year, no matter how many people showed up, no matter what the income, the money went into a collective "pot" and was distributed equally among the schools that shared Fred Kelly Stadium. Even with the many changes and adjustments throughout the year, the dauntless spirit of El Modena's teams remained successful and winning.



awnie,
e. Well I've known you for uite a while now.
We sure had fun at atalina and I'm sure you had fun at Grad nite. I hope that you have enjoyed your years at El Modena especially your Senior year. Have a good time in life and set goals for yourself. Strive to achieve your goals.
Bye See you around

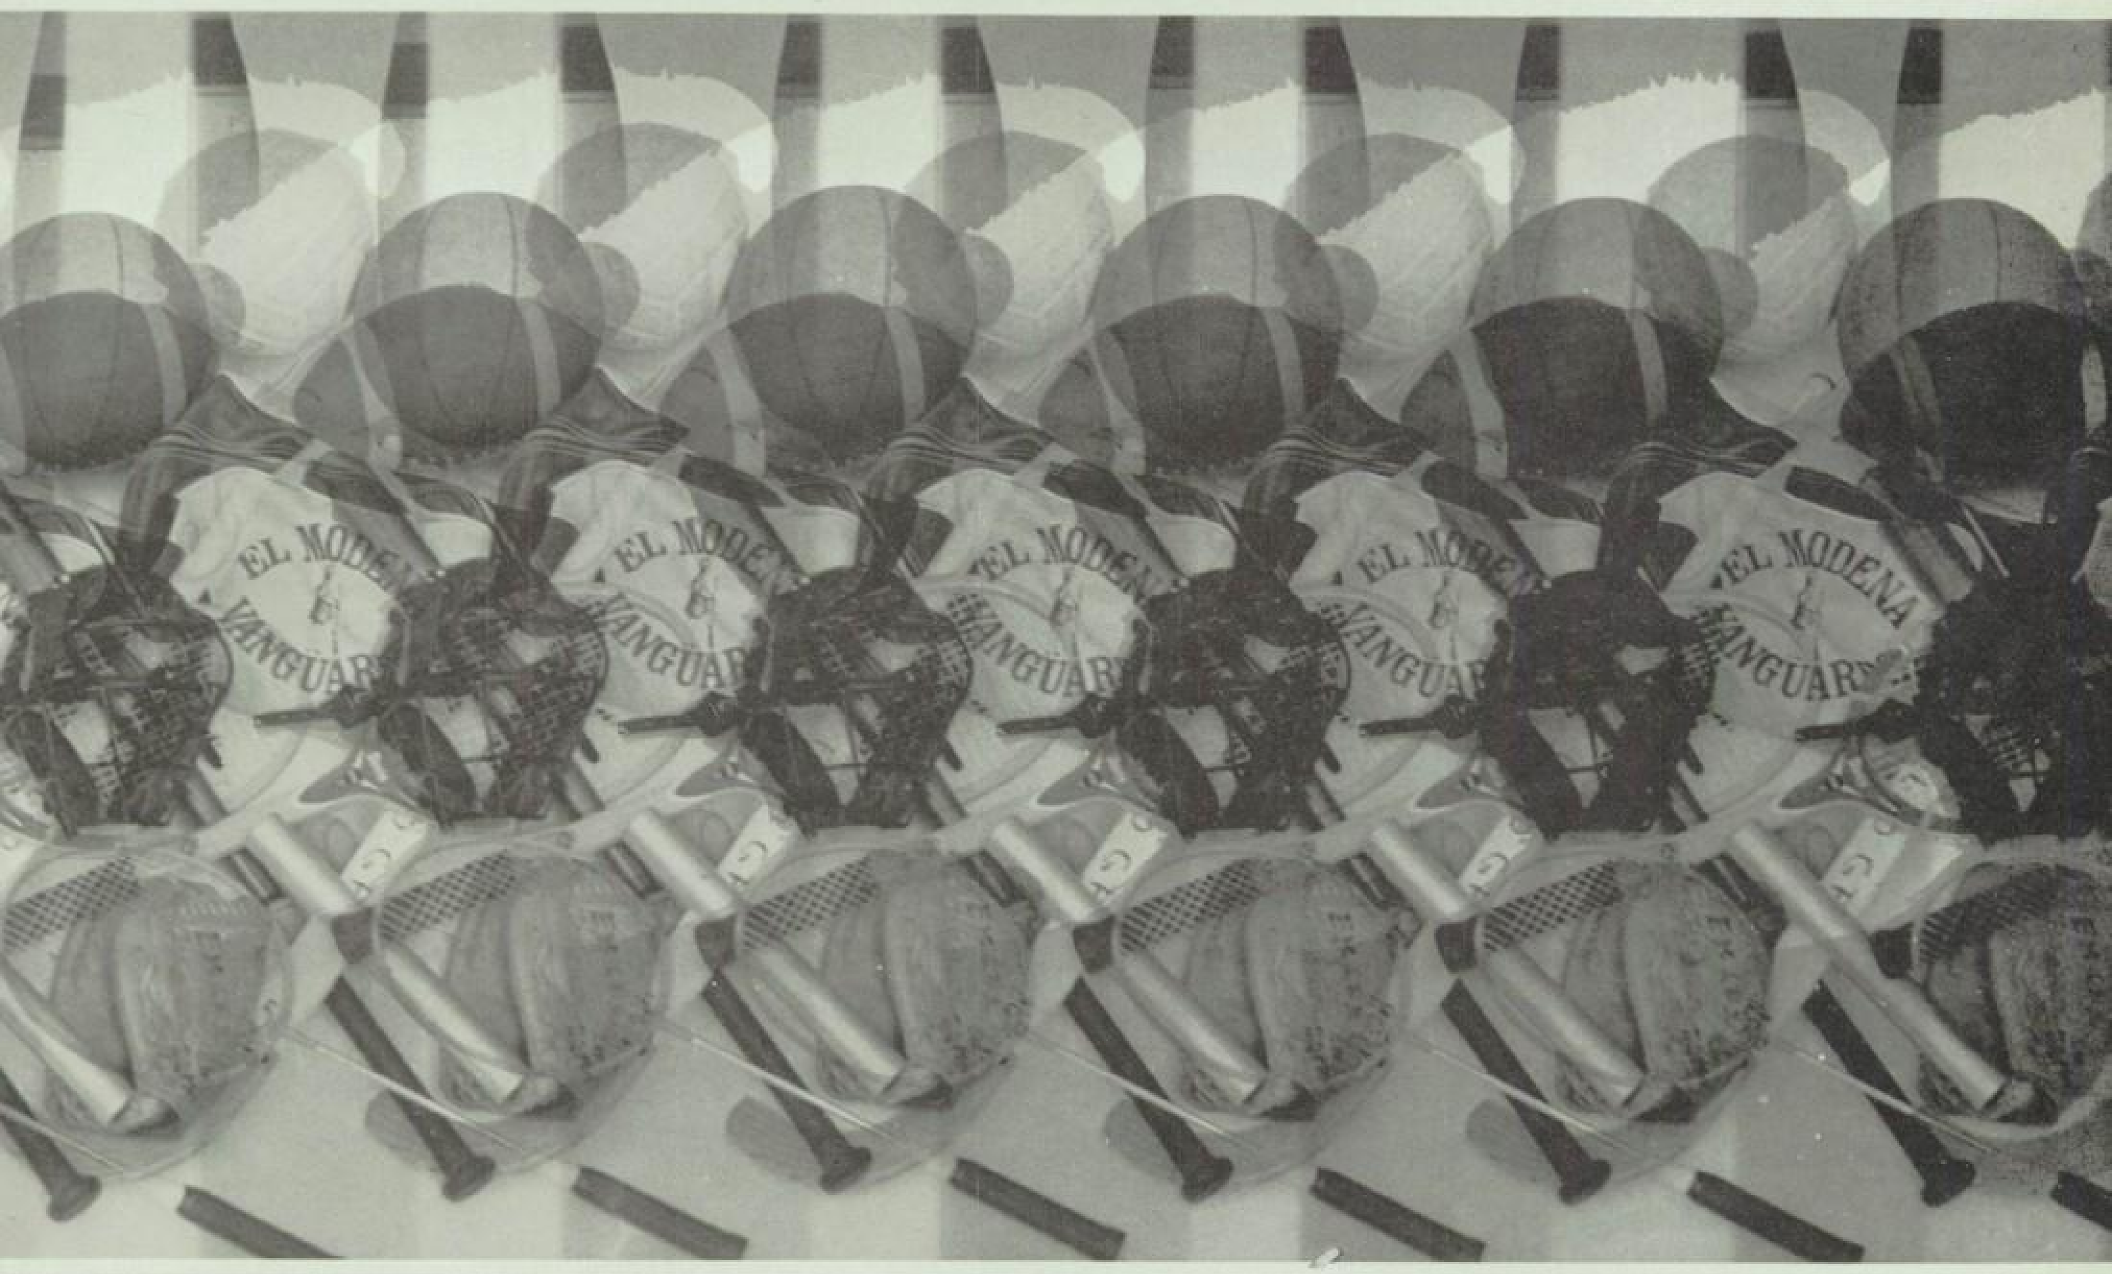
P.S. Good Luck.



the quack came back

"The Quack Is Back", the theme for the 1978 Vanguard Football Team, proved to be correct as they finished the regular season with only one defeat. Their season did not end there—they continued playing team after team until on December 16th, El Modena became the C.I.F. Southern Conference Champion.

The defense, led by Register's All-Star Mike Lester (defensive player of the year), clamped down and ended the year with six shutouts. Offensively, the Vanguards worked around players like Randy Bauer (most points scored) and Bob Frasco, quarterback, who helped the Varsity Squad gain a total of 230 points.

The team was well stocked with returning third year veterans—Mark Buehler, Bart Eirich, Mark Munoz, Dave Welsh, Jim Herkimer, as well as Captains Mike Lester, and Randy Bauer. This was the "old front". The "new front", (because with the three of them they do make up a front) were the Rozsa triplets; Dan, Dave, and Doug. All three were first string starters with the Varsity Squad.

"El Modenas football team this year was one of the finest in our school's history," quoted Head Coach Bob Lester.

What happens if one doesn't play in the varsity night game? The next day, those who did not play the night before, played in a day game against an opposing teams junior varsity team. This system provided game experience for valuable team members who might have been needed for the next week's varsity game.

vanguards capture cif championship

It happened for the first time in 1978—the El Modena Vanguards won the C.I.F. Southern Conference Football Championship.

Expected to finish fourth place by the media, the Vanguards proved to be a "little" bit better than expected, by going 7-0 in league play.

In the playoffs, the Vanguards started off successfully by sliding past Anaheim 13-10 in a close overtime. They then beat Santiago 14-7, with a last minute touchdown and shut out Canyon 21-0 in the following game. "It was a great game," We were in control the whole time, it just took us awhile to get our momentum. We proved we were a better team by beating them 20-6, for the C.I.F. Championship," said Dave Rozsa.

The waterpolo team, along with Coaches Wayne Poucher and Robert LaMont, started out with high hopes of having a successful season this year. Even though there were excellent performances by Scott Burnside, Russ Paldi, and John Sohl, the team had a disappointing year, ending the season with a league record of 1-6. Coach Poucher feels the teams most difficult opponents were Foothill, Villa Park and Dana Hills, but plans on a better season next year.

Even though the team worked hard, Coach Poucher is hoping that with a little more support from the school, waterpolo will improve and be an up and coming sport.

full time coaches take over tennis

Plenty of practice occupied the time of the girl's tennis team members throughout the season, which lasted from September to November. Unless it was raining or too windy, most of the girls occupied the tennis courts from sixth period on.

Because of the calibre of play they received from their competition, it was deemed necessary for the entire outfit (which consisted of the J.V. and Varsity Squads) to remain "on their toes". Both of the squads played on the same day, travelled together, and shared the same coaches—Mrs. Karen Benish and Mr. Art Green.

Besides competition being tough, some members felt that the team wasn't organized enough—even with two full time coaches for sixth period and after school.

After regular season play, which ended in a 3-11 record, six girls were chosen to go to the finals. Singles: Lori Nelson, number one; Judy Lentz, number two. Doubles: Hilda Perez and Kelly Moore, number one; Carrie Miller and Holly Reed, number two.

preparation begins . . . again

"As long as you don't mess around and you try your hardest—there's no reason to get cut from the team," explained Rick Franklin of the Sophomore Tennis Team. Not "messing around" meant playing hard and doing what ever trainer, Alan Clinton asked, which usually included running 1-2 miles a day. This practice must have helped—they defeated El Dorado in the opening match of the season. From the results of the games, two players were selected to go to Ojai, California, to play doubles in the biggest West Coast tournament offered to high school student's.

With a fairly new team, Head Coach Art Green's plans were to train hard through this year, in order to give rivals Villa Park and Foothill a run for the money in '80.

hands-off policy dominates sport

For the first time in El Modena's history a soccer team was formed. Coach Joaquin Munoz, a psychology and education major at Chapman College, summarized their first season as a "building and learning period". 95% of the team was made up of underclassmen, who usually played an opposing all senior team. The toughest team to play was Santa Ana High, who later won the century league title.

The Vanguards are looking forward to next year in which they are expected to improve their record as well as their team performance.

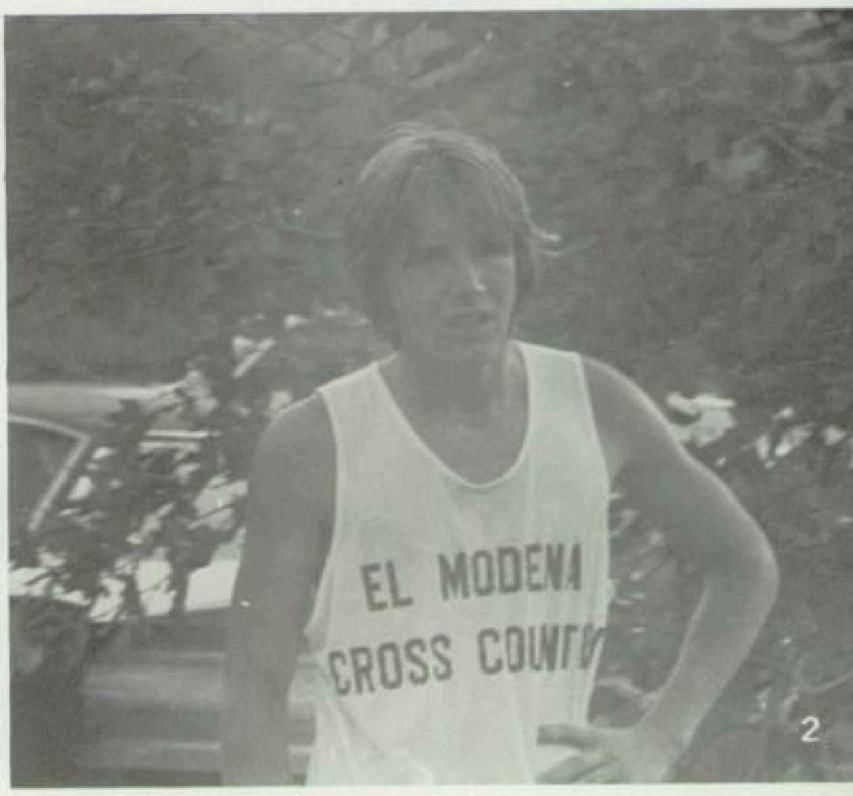
a long road to c.i.f.



In three years of coaching at El Modena, Mr. Tom Weber and Mr. Jim Schultz have brought the Cross Country Team from two wins in 1976 to the C.I.F. Finals in 1978. With eight good quality runners who could easily be first man on most high school cross country teams, the Vanguards had a good year despite the Villa Park and Tustin Tri Meet setback. "It's not the small setbacks in the beginning that decide a good or poor team, but rather who comes out on top at the end," Mr. Tom Weber explained, citing the Spartan Tiller setback. "The Pack" went on to finish third in the always tough Century League Finals and quickly advanced to the C.I.F. 4A Finals where they finished seventh out of a field of twelve. C.I.F. 4A in Cross Country, unlike football, is one division, which includes all large high schools from San Clemente to San Luis Obispo.

Outstanding Varsity and Junior Varsity members included Brian Harold-Most Valuable, Steve Valen-Most Improved, and Carl Rossi-Most Inspirational. Roger Schaufele was Most Valuable on the Junior Varsity team.

On the Sophomore squad outstanding members included Jim Gressard-Most Valuable, Mike Grant-Most Improved and Russ Shuirman-Most Inspirational.

Mr. Weber and Mr. Schultz have a hope of gleaming success for next year. Mr. Weber explained, "With four out of seven Varsity Lettermen returning, the team and I will only be satisfied if we win C.I.F. next year, which will enable us to become a nationally ranked team."

1. At Irvine Park, the Vanguard Cross Country team is off to a good start against Foothill and Santa Ana. 2. Craig Newell describes the race without any words. 3. Steve Valen sprints ahead while teammates Matt Money, Ron Scheibel, and Brian Harold attempt to pass Foothill runners.

it's not the quantity ....it's the quality

With the completion of their second year, the Girls Cross Country Team showed a marked improvement. Hard work was the key to their success enabling the girls to win two meets, establishing their mark as sixth place in the Century League Conference. Ms. Gaye Williams, Girls Cross Country Coach explained, "We did very well, considering the team started practicing in September and our first meet was September 28th. We had quality, not quantity, and they all worked hard and improved immensley."

The most outstanding member of the team was Audrey Allen who finished first against Villa Park, Orange, Canyon, and Santa Ana. Second against Tustin and fourth against Foothill.

Ms. Williams summed up the season, "All the girls did a great job. I was proud to be their coach."

teamwork makes for progress

The girls Field Hockey team had a very successful pre-season, winning all six games they played. However, in league standings they didn't do as well.

This year the competition was really tough. All the games were really close. Usually in the last few minutes of the game the opponent would score the winning point. Tustin was a tough team to play. They had an experienced team who ended up clinching league championship.

The girls played together as a team. As the year progressed so did they.

Most Valuable went to Diane Goss, who played on the Varsity level since her sophomore year.

The Vanguard Varsity Wrestling Team set out to prove itself not only to its opponents in the Century League, but also to Elmo's student body. The Varsity team was picked to place no higher than fourth in dual meet competition and sixth at the league finals. But through excessive hard work and optimistic attitudes, the team cme through with flying colors. An undefeated season was the result with the Vanguards taking first place in the Century League standings.

The team received tremendous support from the home crowds. Coach Bill Backstrom commented, "The greatest compliment the students could award our team, would be to attend our meets."

After becoming Century League Champs with a 6-0-1 record, the Vanguards went on to finish second at the Century League finals placing wrestlers in the top four, in eight of the thirteen weight classes. Only Mike Cavett advanced to the C.I.F. finals, placing fifth. Mike's hard work enabled the Vanguards to accomplish yet another goal; sending an El Modena wrestler to the State finals.

Although the J.V. team's season didn't go as expected, individual talent improved immensely. The Most Outstanding J.V.s were Greg Chamness, Kurt Burger, Lance Cooper, Dave Hill and Jeff Smith.

sophomores promise hope for swim team

With a fourth place league championship standing, the El Modena Swim Team had its best season in '79. A backbone of seniors held the experience for the team, while the "up and coming" sophomores proved to be the promise for next year's improvement. When asked his impression of the swim team, Coach Wayne Poucher replied, "This year, as each year, we build up the confidence and unity we need to be successful. Our season was a successful season, but not satisfying. We look ahead to the year when we can be on top and say the hard work paid off." Even so, every one worked diligently and improvements were seen. John Sohl was elected most valuable player and Brian Chapman was voted most improved player.

follow three d's swimmers, divers

"Desire, determination and dedication is what is needed to make a good team," commented Coach Chris Tobey of the El Modena Girl's Swim Team. According to Coaches Chris Tobey and Wayne Poucher, the girls were full of the determination they needed to perform as a uniform team. The team was strong in all events including the 50 and 100 yard free style, the breast stroke, and the butterfly. Diving events also showed a marked improvement in each swim meet to the next. El Modena's female swimmers gained the confidence and experience needed for a fighting season next year. The girls showed an unmeasurable amount of determination in their practices which made this the successful season they had hoped for all season long.

spirit's still high

High team spirit characterized the El Modena Varsity Basketball Team and proved to be their greatest asset of the season. Although the team lost several games, they fought hard and their defeats came by narrow margins. Lack of experience was also a contributing factor.

The sport was not simply about winning and losing—it served a purpose. Coach Jim Ervin, stated "Basketball should be a game that is fun for the players and exciting for the fans," he added, "It should be demanding on the players in order to develop the personal characteristics of dedication, desire and determination."

j.v.'s improvement mid-season key

Improvement was the key word in describing the 1979 season for the Junior Varsity Basketball team. After a rather disappointing first round, the Vanguard team started out second round play by winning the irst three games.

Coach Kirby Day stated, "I would have liked to have had a better record, however, to see the kids work hard and come together as a team has been very satisfying."

When the El Mo team played Santa Ana Valley at home, they really showed their talent. Shooting well rom the floor and having very few turnovers, the team ominated the game.

While playing cross town rival Villa Park in second round play, the two teams went into triple overtime. But the Vanguards came up short, losing by two points. The match up between these two teams made for a very exciting game.

fast break and hustle makes for improvement

"Basketball is at its best when a team fast breaks, uses team work, and hustles all the time," said Coach Steve Thompson of the Sophomore Varsity Basketball Team. This philosophy was put to good practice by the team when they went 6-8 in league play.

Outstanding Varsity players included Joe Miller (Most Valuable Player), Lane MacAllister (team captain), and George Bonilla (Most Improved).

The Sophomore Junior Varsity Basketball team had a successful season also, compared to last years 0-14 record. "It's nice to win a few," remarked Coach Jim Veit, after winning four out of ten games. Junior Varsity player Robert Gould (team captain) won Most Hustle, while Anthony Hurtado took home the M.V.P. award.

girls hook a few

With hours of hard work and many sore muscles, Coach Ed Lynch and Assistant Coach Scott Sowell attempted to guide the girls basketball team to victory. The competition was tough with Foothill winning the championship, and Tustin coming in a close 2nd.

The girls lacked experience since only three varsity players returned from last year's varsity squad.

The Varsity placed 6th in league standing. Most valuable went to Corrine De Arakal who did an outstanding job throughout the year.

The J.V. Team finished the season in 3rd place. The girls were coached by Barbara Luna, a former varsity basketball player for EL MODENA. Most Valuable went to Cathy Espere.

lettermen return; help out varsity

Starting off on the right foot, the Varsity Track Team upset Katella High School by beating them in their first non-league meet. With Katella being favored to win their league, the Vanguards showed that they were ready for anyone.

With four returning lettermen; Randy Bauer, Brent Grebbien, Jim Herkimer, and Steve Honda, the season promised to be an exciting one. Ron Scheibel and Brian Harold were expected to do well in the one mile run, while Brent Grebbien and Jim Herkimer had a good chance to qualify for state. The team's strength was mainly in the high and low hurdles, the 880 run, the one and two mile relays, the shot put, and the long and triple jumps.

"Being in track involves a team effort, with the individuals striving to be worthy opponents and to gain respect as athletes," stated Coach Peter Parker.

talented tracksters found in abundance

With the large amount of boys trying out for the track team, the Junior Varsity and Sophomore squads received their share of talent. Some of which were: Tony Chiapuzio, Dan, Dave, and Doug Rozsa, Brad Thompson and Allen Trumbo.

With the Vanguard team picked in preseason to place no higher than fourth place, one of the main goals was to be a strong competitive team in the Century League and to uphold with pride the winning tradition of El Modena Track and Field.

The Junior Varsity team started out the non-league season well, with their win against Katella High School.

With the addition of some very talented sophomores, the Girl's Track Team had a fine season which emphasized their stronger points. Mr. Fred Gale, Head Coach, explained, "We were much stronger than last year in the distance and field events."

Returning performers included Audrey Allen, Cynthia Schreck and Janet Wells. The outstanding sophomores included Julie Fortman, Kamila Al-Najjar, Nikki La Berge, and Jamie Schreck. Mr. Gale was assisted by Linda Farrer and John Ahearn.

gymnasts seek repeat for '79

The winning of the Century League Championships in 1978 provided the goal for the 1979 gymnastics team. Coach Gaye Williams predicted that the Junior Varsity team would take the championship once again, and the Varsity would do very well, individually. The J.V.'s strongest event was the floor exercise; the stiffest competition came from Tustin and Villa Park. The girls were proud of their new uniforms and sweats which were finally delivered.

To sum up the season, J.V. gymnast, Joanne McKee commented. "The best thing about the J.V. team winning the Century League Championship last year for El Modena, was the sense of pride and accomplishment.

Change. . .this word has a different connotation when one looks at it from the viewpoint of a businessmen. To a businessmen it used to constitute a profit, or at least part of a profit. It is becoming less and less so now-a-days. Most transactions are made with paper money—the decline of the value of the dollar has proven it necessary.

Now is the time you need to decide what is truly important in your life.

If you have not decided, or cannot decide, it usually means that not enough thought has been given to the alternatives.

It has been said, as well as demonstrated, by imaginative and knowledgeable people that you can do almost anything you set your mind to do.....provided you are committed. That means hard work, and in almost all cases, sacrifice on your part.

May we, at the Yorba Park Medical Group, Inc., encourage you to redeem the time and not let it get away from you. Make the decisions and shape your own life; otherwise, someone else will do it for you.

1. The earth, forum of man's activities, as seen from outer space. 2. The regulating colors of the stoplight. 3. Progressing to destinations known and unknown, man competes in a constant race. 4. The Union Bank building rises at the intersection of Main and La Veta. 5. Illuminating the skies, the many lights of Orange signal the approaching night. 6. A brilliant red sun culminates an active day on the El Modena campus. 7. Wind rips the dancing flags. 8. As seen from above, students pass through the cement canyon near the 300 building. 9. Social science students filter into the confusion of class change. 10. Nutrition finds the flagpole area filled with socializing students. 11. From any perspective, class changes are found a necessity in everyone's schedule. 12. Niel Corey patiently studies for a biology test in a quiet corner of the library. 13. Examining skin cells under the microscope, Todd Goldenberg completes a physiology lab drawing. 14. A creative writing assignment proves to be a challenge for Mike Lester and Mrs. Nancy Illo. 15. Modern World History teacher Mr. John Komanapalli lectures a sophomore class on the political system of China. 16. Advising Bill Orr on his semester schedule, counselor Connie Bridgman offers helpful information. 17. Mime troupe member Bruce Cathcart. 18. In the quad, a group of Chicano students leisurely pass a Tuesday afternoon. 19. Demonstrating Spirit Week enthusiasm, faculty member Nancy Illo dons a Mouseketeer hat. 20. Senior lapsitters enjoy participating in Junior Day activities. 21. Draped in a "Roman" toga and crowned with a dried flower wreath, Ann Dixon proudly represents the senior class. 22. Shelley Fredericks daydreams in English class. 23. Poised in a shopping cart pushed by "charioteer" Richard Todd, Colleen Ainley competes in the senior race. 24. Kimaya Koepke and Ken Lullo rehearse their lines and blocking for the upcoming drama production, "Arsenic and Old Lace." 25. Enveloped in early morning fog, marching band member practice for their next field show. 26. Junping towards the sky, Jamie Reinertson raises spectator spirit during the football season. 27. El Modena Century League champions drift towards the lockerroom for a break at halftime. 28. Colorful junior "tourists" crowd the ampitheatre during the Spirit Week assembly.

life . . . a show of shows

Life . . . an interplay of time, people, and action. Everyone participates in this show of shows. Each single being with a different part, a part all their own. Symbolized by varied emotions or appearances, creating a unique character—you. It can be worn as a face; happiness, sadness, joy, laughter, or anger all represent constantly shifting attitudes and feelings. The scenery, scripts, costumes, and make-up may vary, but throughout life, change remains reasons for working vary

Work is, or will be, a fact of life for everyone. It can be for money or for pleasure—depending on personal needs, parental requests, or one's desires. Requests are often made by parents to perform such odd jobs as straightening rooms, mowing lawns, and washing the car. School also requires a certain standard of performance. Some students enrolled in ROP classes as training for future careers.

Many students encountered self-satisfaction by volunteering on their own spare time. Candy striping, a community service, prepares some students for high-paying medical careers. Some students were not satisfied, or needed more than, the learning experience alone . . . they desired money.

1. Working on parental request, Chris and Cara Poidmore wash the family van. 2. R.O.P. firemen Victor Elizondo and Richard Eaton demonstrate hosing skills during class at the Villa Park Fire Department. 3. As a candy striper at Santa Ana-Tustin Community Hospital, Tricia Wiley delivers flowers to a patient. 4. While concentrating on taking a phone order, Chris Simmons keeps busy at Foster's Freeze.

el modena: a time for maturing

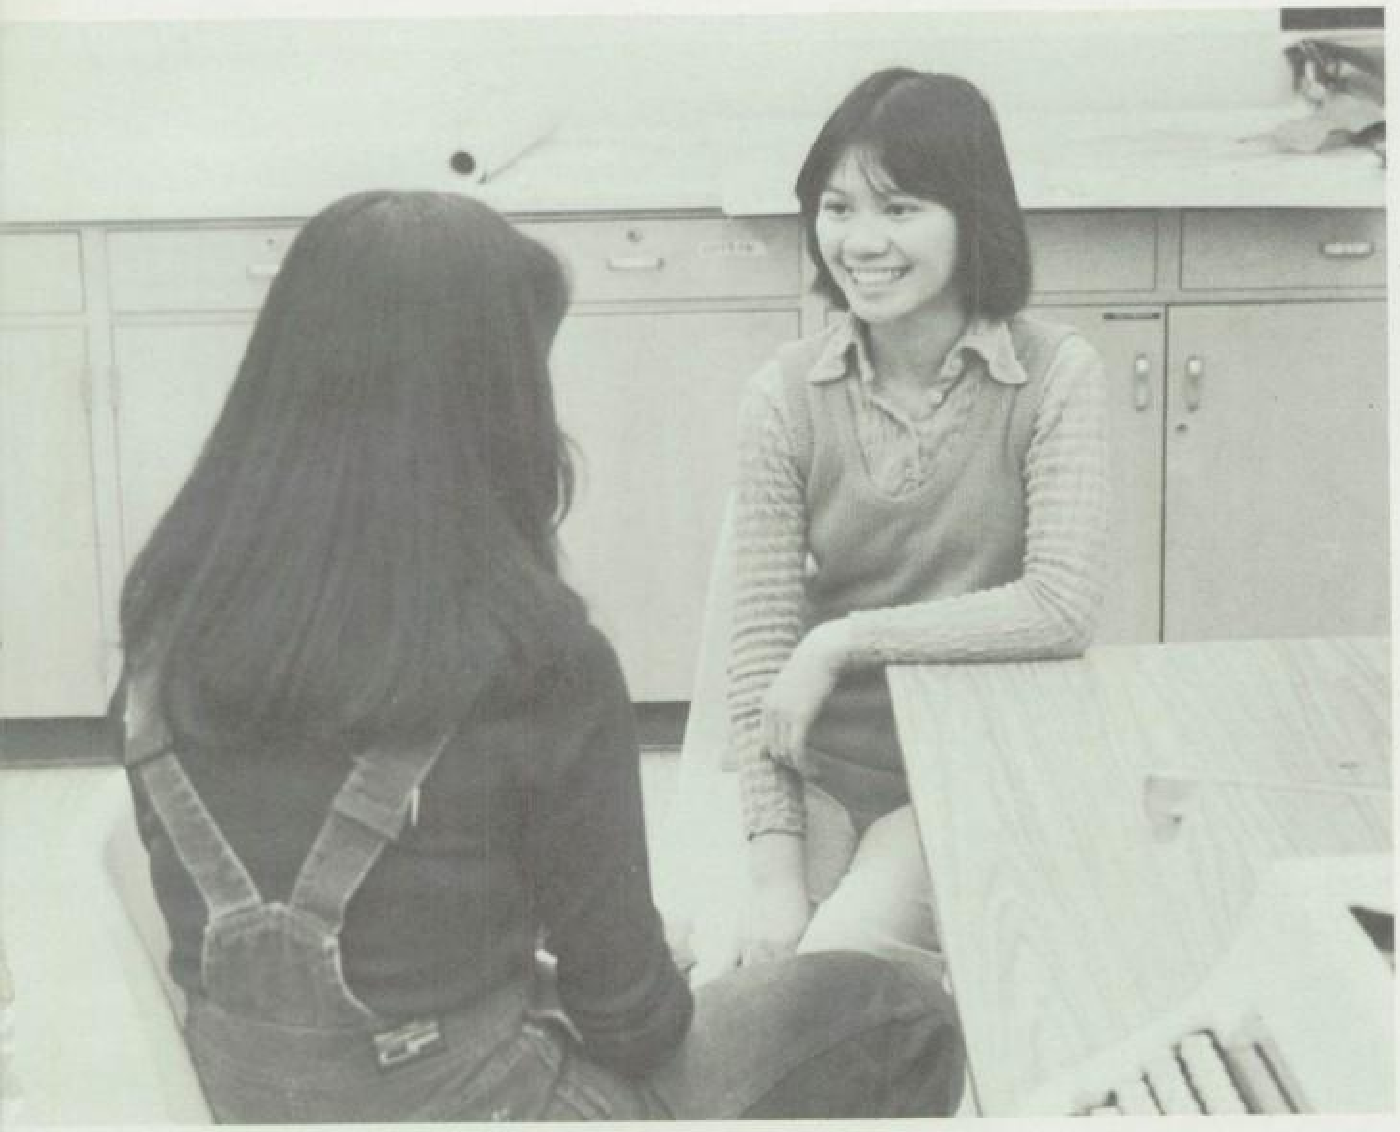
Moving into a new and exciting environment it's often a growing experience. For many students, El Modena has offered a time for maturing to adulthood in both ideas and responsibilities. Some students began to appreciate the value of a good education, while others enjoyed the social relationships they formulated over the three years of high school. Whatever the learning experience may have been, El Modena has altered many lives, usually for the better.

Rob Landin

"Being in El Modena's band has taught me responsibility and has allowed me to be involved musically at school." - Rob Landin

"I've changed because since I've been at El Modena, I've been given more responsibilities - like having my own car!" - Jim Ervin

Jim Ervin



"I've changed at El Modena by becoming more involved with school which in turn has made me more open toward people." - Debbie Campbell

"I've learned a second foreign language at El Modena - English!" - Trang

entertainment provides something for everyone

Most everyone needs some kind of diversion to escape from the ordinary, everyday, way of life. Over the years, the field of entertainment developed into a popular pastime; whether it was television, concerts, the movies, or a theatrical production.

Even in the earliest civilizations, people found relaxation and enjoyment in theatrical plays and concerts. Then, as time passed by, there were technical achievements that made it possible for the development of movies. Soon the theaters were filled with people from all walks of life.

Not long ago, the technicians once again brought everyone a new form of entertainment; television. No longer did people have to leave their residence for amusement. They could enjoy dramas and comedies in the privacy of their own homes.

As for what the future holds, no one really knows for sure, but as long as people need to have diversions from their lives, there will always be new forms of entertainment.

world events alter viewpoints

Daily, events occur that bring changes to the world. These events do not effect world leaders alone; blue and white collar workers, housewives, and even the students of a society feel the swing of a shifted pendulum. It effects the way people think and even the way they live. Whether it's the birth of the world's first test tube baby—a giant step for science as well as all mankind, or the senseless deaths of hundreds of followers caused by the deranged mind of their leader, these events alter the attitudes of mankind.

1. Freed Iranian political prisoners celebrate the shifted leadership of their country. 2. The birth of Louise Joy Brown, the first baby concieved in a test tube, offers hope for many future parents unable to have children of their own. 3. Surrounding the "death vat", the bodies of Jonestown followers force a new look at cults and mind control. 4. Hanging icicles from a sculptured lion's head in Portland, Oregon, exemplifies the drastic change the seasons bring. 5. Political viewpoints are altered by President Jimmy Carter's recognition of China. 6. After the deaths of two popes in 1978, the College of Cardinals elects the first non-Italian pope in over 400 years, Pope John-Paul II, of Poland.

mans' restlessness creates change

Man moves. Mechanized transportation has made modern society fluid. Automobiles travel the roads, streets, and highways of the nation, as blood flows through the capillaries, veins, and arteries of the human body. Man is in constant motion—be it the rise of great cities, or the roar of a Concorde jet streaking across the sky. He exhibits his nature as a restless being forced into an active existence, represented as a never-ending race.

Laurie,

The end of the school years is starting to catch up with me. I'm starting to get sad, you'll be one of the people I'll miss. But I'll be around to haunt ya.

Remember crafts class with all the jerks in it. We had fun. Remember all our talks (we talked about everything too!)

Hope you have alot of happy 13th's!

Have a good one

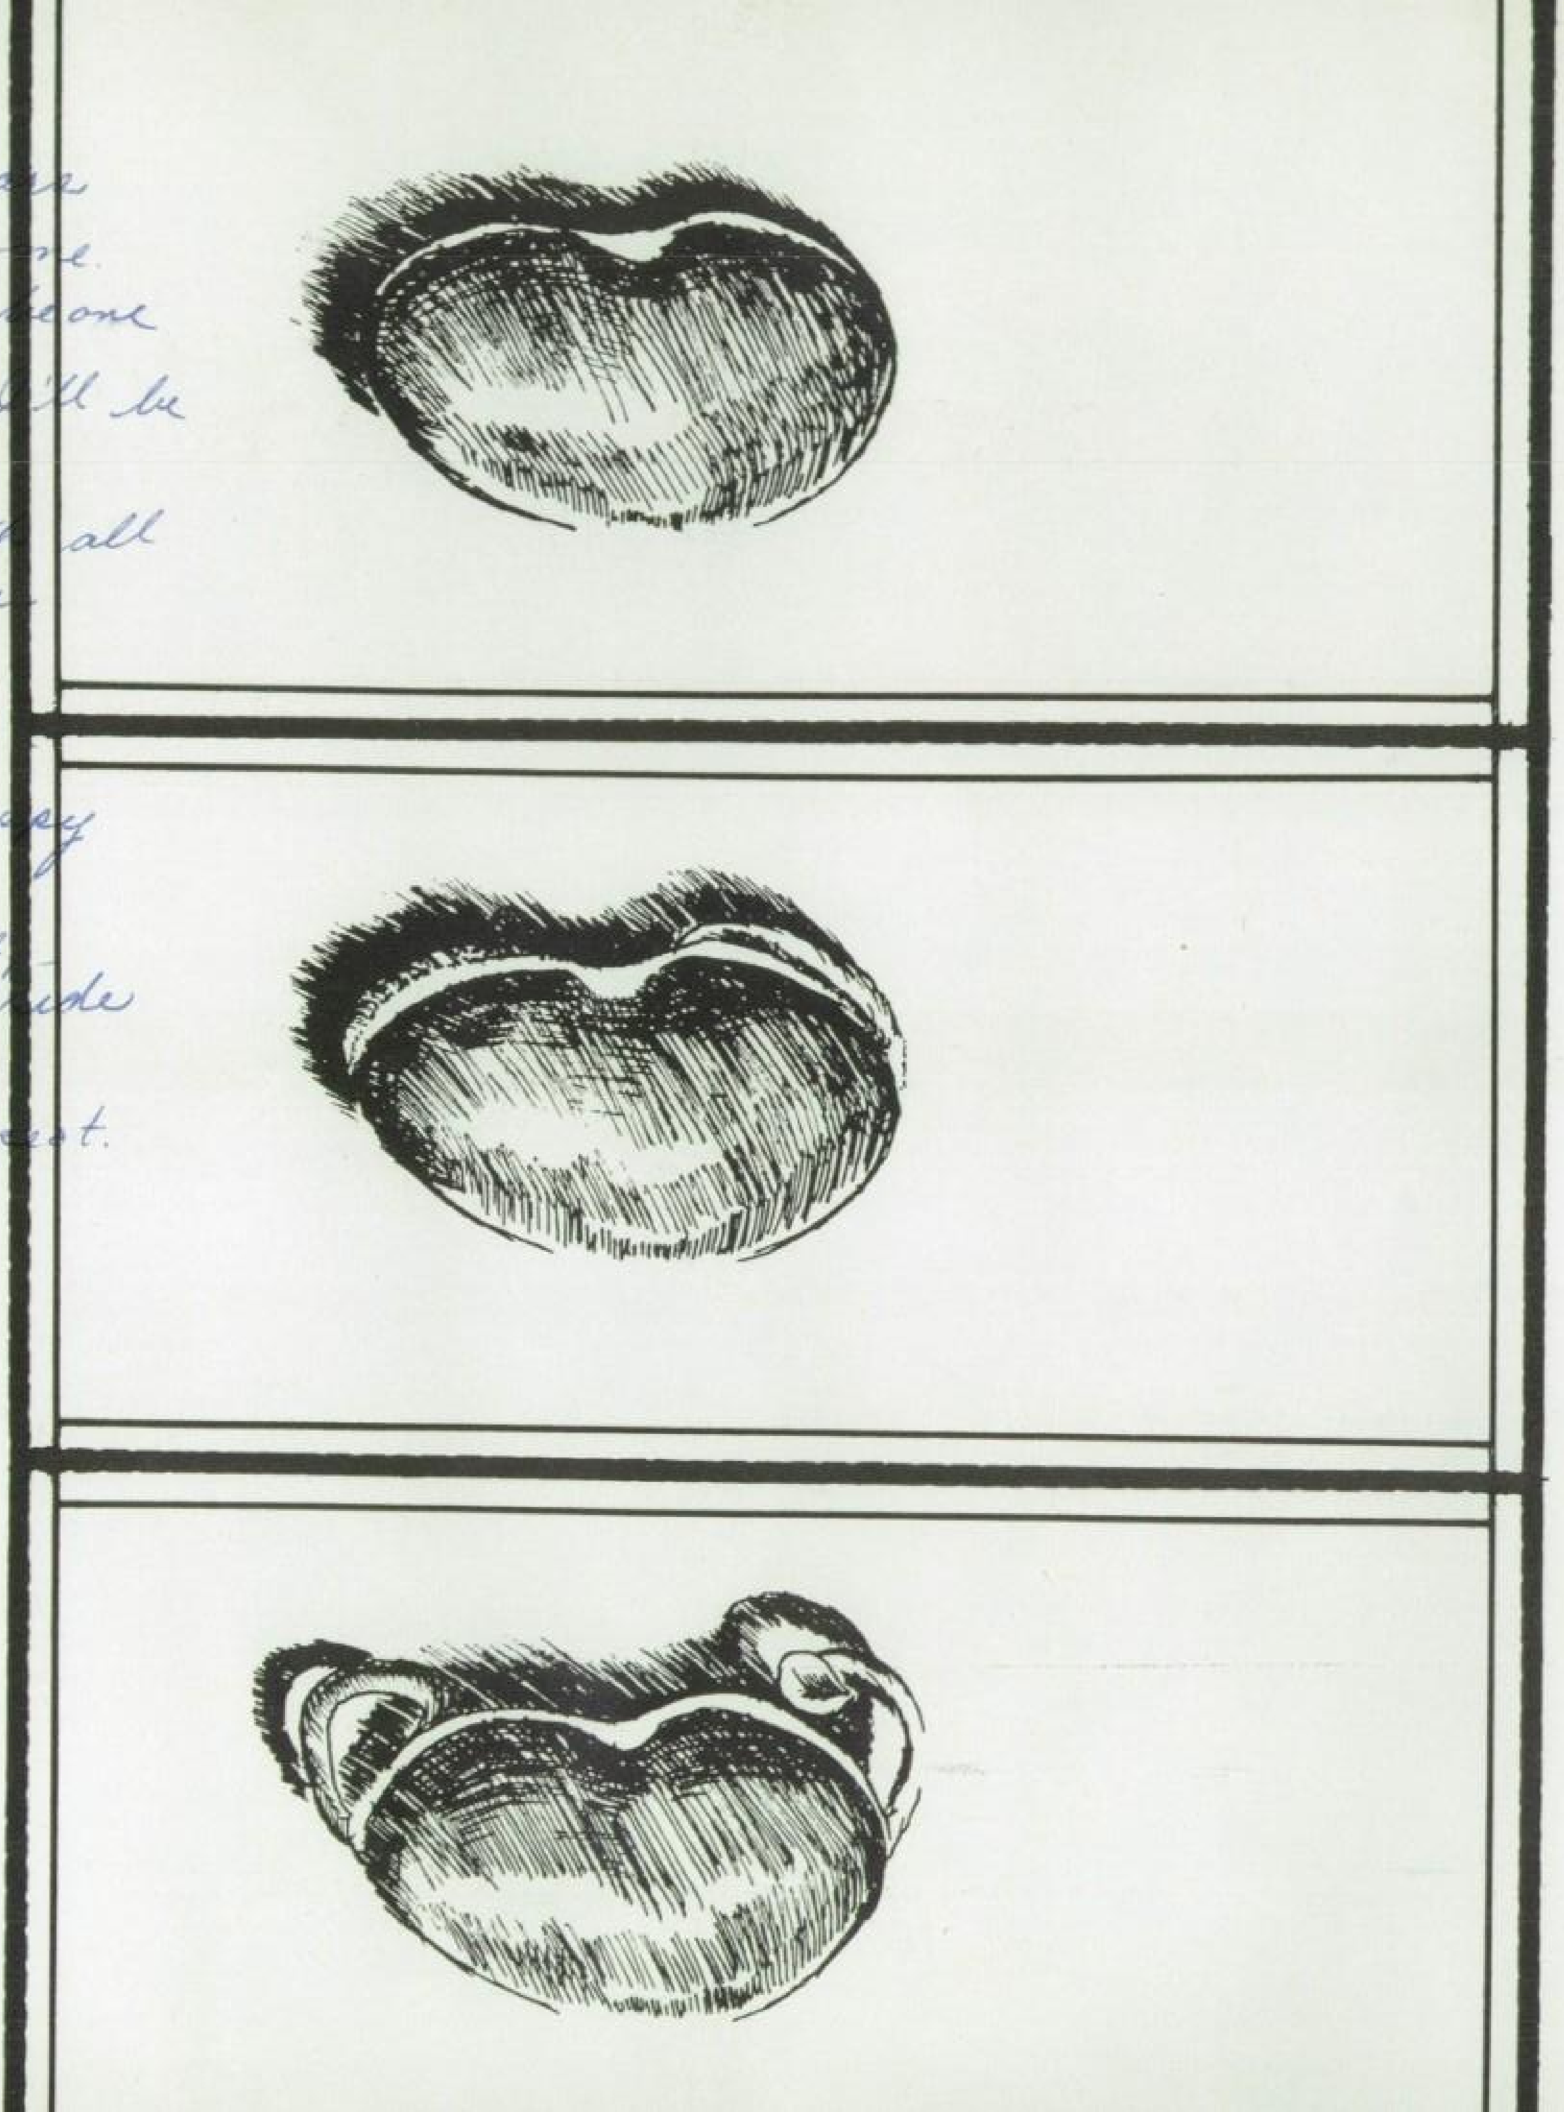
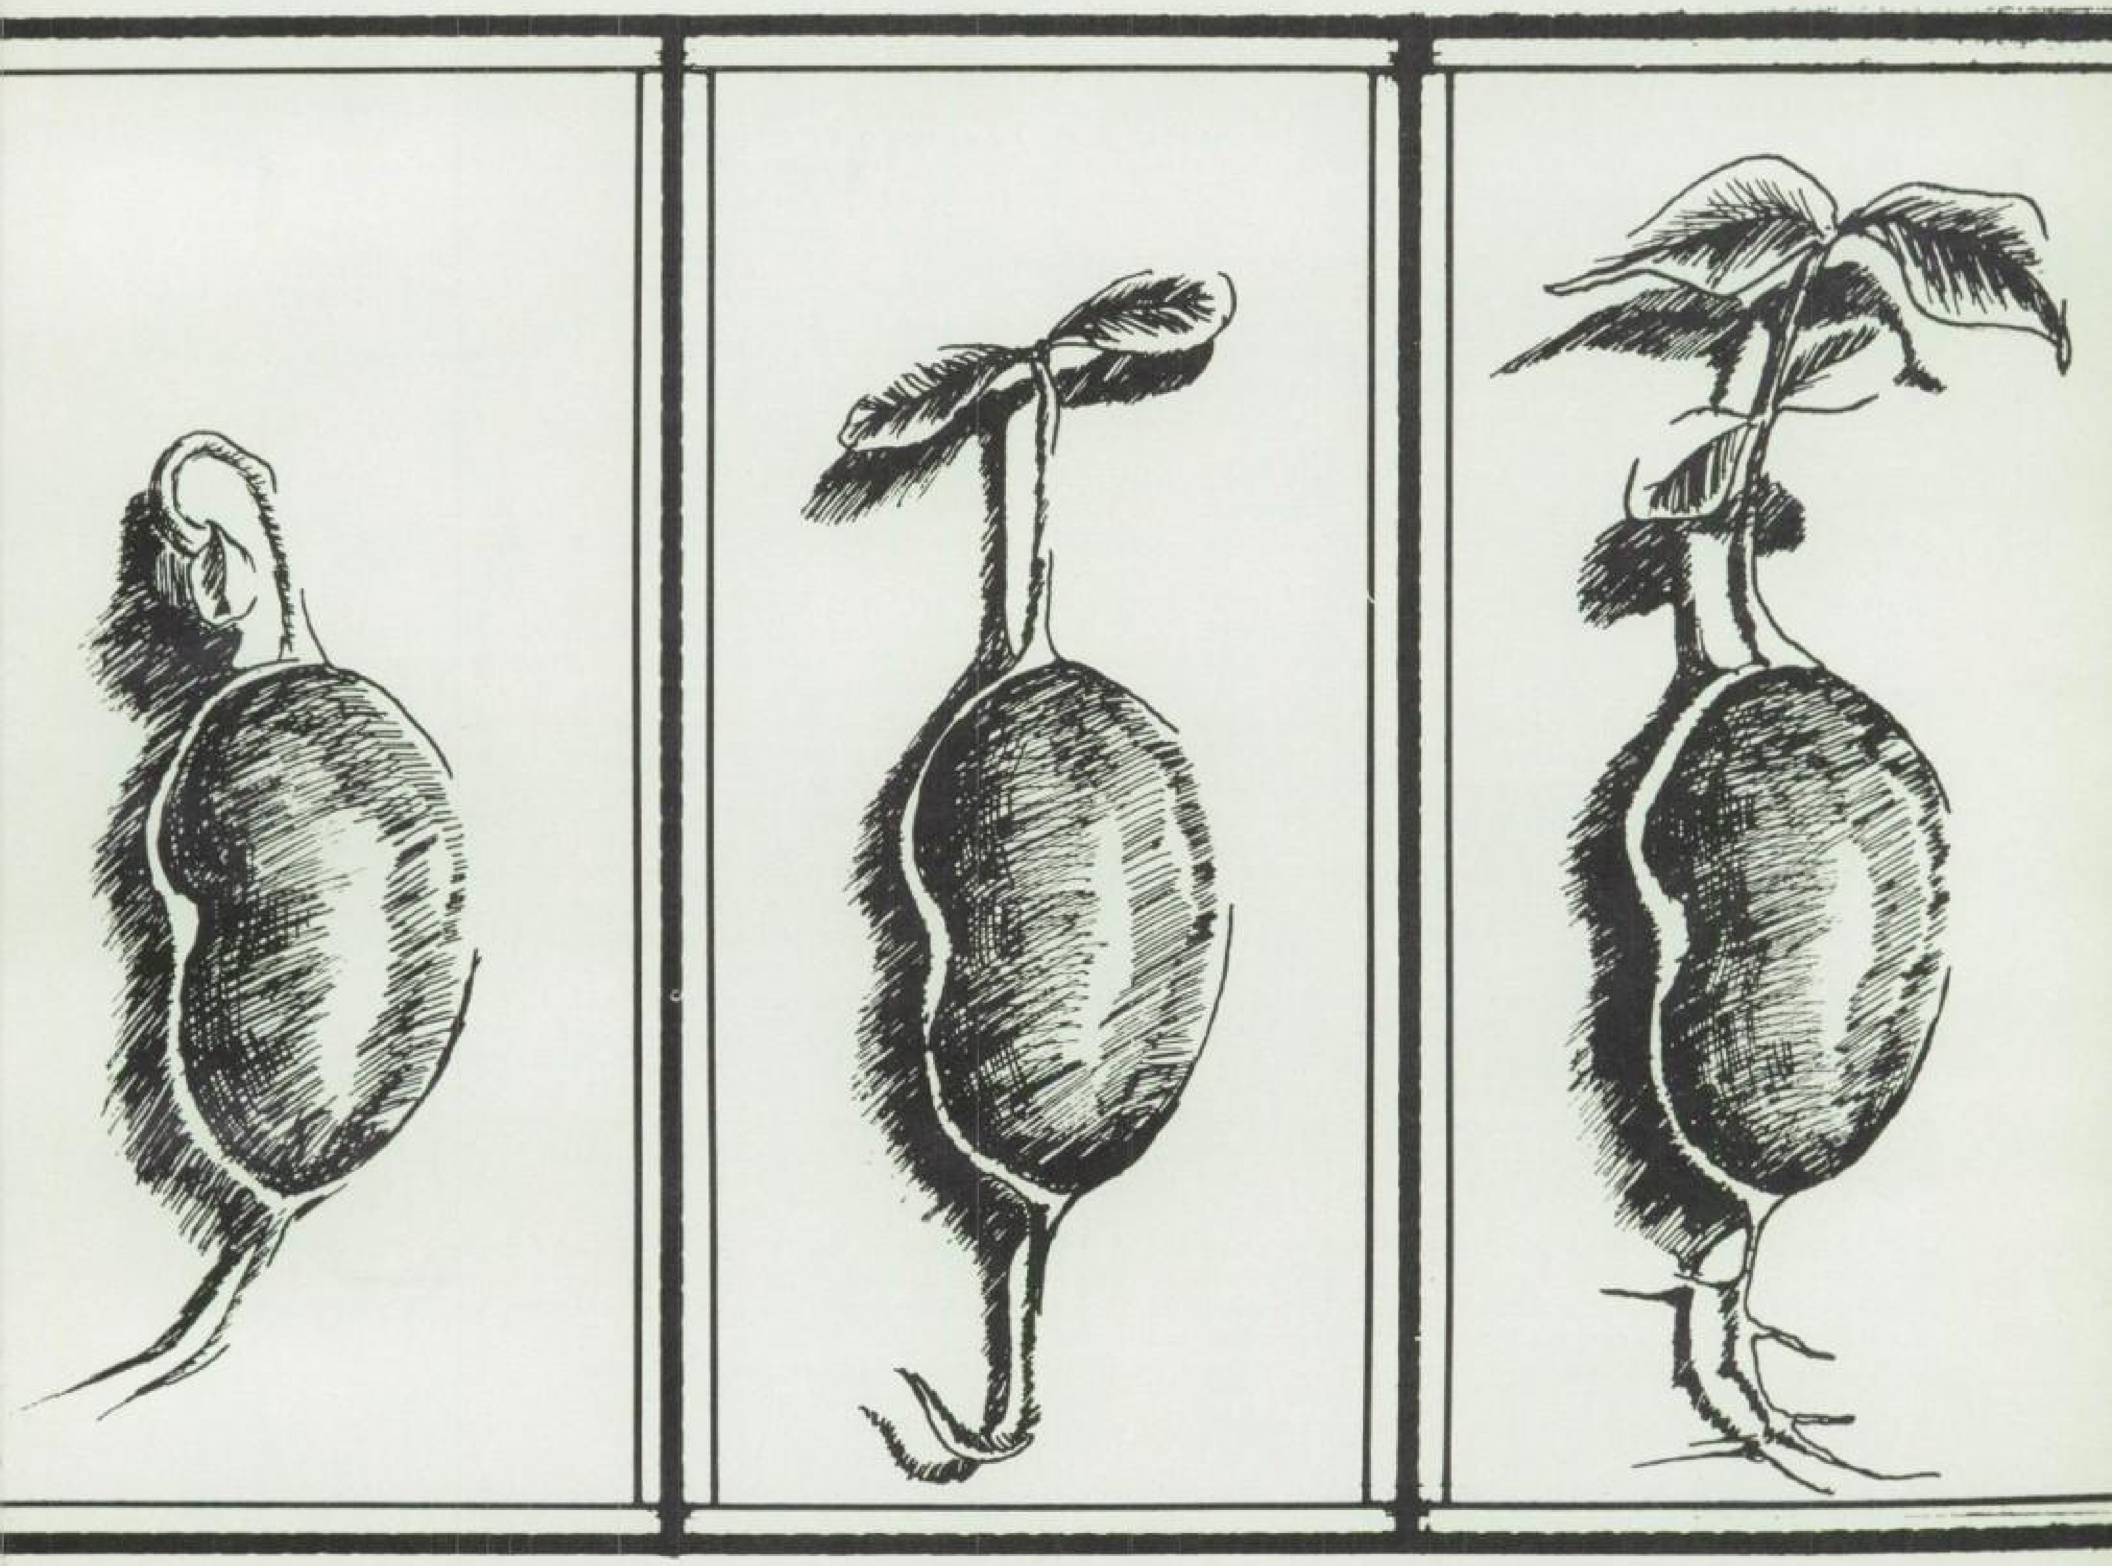
PS Remember Catalina - '79's great.





everyone, like the growing bean, experiences life's many changes

A tiny green bean sprout springs forth from its sheltered cotyledon—a miniature representation of the process of change. As the bean passes through various stages of development, so does the student. Entering the world weak and unprepared, he soon becomes a mass of activity. For the student, education plays a vital role in their development, along with the influence of parents and friends. The student matures in passing years.

You too are the result of growth, the result of change. Daily, new experiences and information affect your thought, and perhaps broaden your horizons. Transitions must be made along the course of life to meet and better understand a perplexing world.

Letter From the Editor

With the delivery of the ESCENA completed, the editor's tragic tale of woe can finally be recounted. Perhaps it is better to see, in her own words, what put on the path of "bluicide" ...

"To whom it may concern:

This note should be kept as the true account of the year. . .all others are false.

Back in September of '78, if anyone would have told me I'd be committing bluicide, I would have laughed in their face. 'Who me?' I'd say, 'You're crazy—what could possibly go wrong?' To put it quite simply. . .anything that could, did!

Most people won't believe that this was a jinxed year. . .I didn't myself. I ignored superstitions that said because I was the thirteenth editor, born on the thirteenth of June, nothing could go right. I ignored the eerie coincidence that we'd lose Mrs. Smith like we did our adviser the year before. I ignored hysterical people who'd scream that they had put something down on a table, for only a minute, and returned to find it had mysteriously disappeared. Yes, I ignored these things—for at least a week.

Weeks passed into months; the theme, layout design and cover were all created. Each of them followed a rocky road. During this time, the section editors were chosen and the staff assignments were made—it was then that I noticed a real problem.

The staff didn't exist. They, too, seemed to disappear, if not physically then mentally—they were off in "Zooie-ooh-land". But somehow, when their work was needed they came through. The whips and chains of Mrs. Smith helped a little bit. . .

Of course it was a fun group too, when they didn't try to kill each other. . .or when they were working on a late night deadline. Then their twisted minds began to surface;

"Change! Don't even repeat that dirty word! * Next year. . . * "Bioya, Mike." * honking * Pizza and Pepsi * "The book will come out in August. Why do I get the feeling they don't believe me?" * Peeca ruler * "There's Neil with his stupid pretzels again." * for fun only * "What do you mean it's not perfect!?!" * late night raids by security * gnomes * "We're going to clean up the room, Mrs. Smith!" * THE BOX * "I quit—I'm not going to take this any more." * The "old" killer ice cubes and the "new" lethal pie * "Just proofread it. . .but don't change anything." * prologue and epilogue * "Ahhh!" * slivers * "Mrs. Smith ripped down the photo wall!" * The Forger's Club * "Hot Child in the City"—the opening/Pinto theme song * Disco Car * Chris: "I feel like Mrs. Smith today." Everyone else: "You do!?!" * The Christmas Party and Mike's "egg-citing adventure" * mental murder * "Please!" * Harry Knuckles and Vivian, the wonder dog * "Her picture is going back in—we have to have three in a row." * Lori and her cold spaghetti * Teddy Bear and the South Carolina wind * "If you give it back, I'll give you a french fry." * pumpkin pie * "I'm not doing this; it's not my responsibility!" * under lined in red—bold * "Everything disappears in this class!" * goysh * Harold and Twerp * "What happened to all the rubber cement?" * feuds * "Are you talking to me. . .I thought you were actually talking to the wall!" * ye olde petrified cake * "Earth, city, city, earth—which way does it go?" * RHPS * "Is it Miss or Mrs.?" * the cafeteria tray collection * "This is a bunch of crop!" * UPS * piling up books in Hoot's car * "We have to write our own copy?" * Allen's blue teeth * The Yearbook Tango * "There's still no adviser?" * the mountain hike at seven a.m. * "Look, I'm telling you—that viscious mailbox attacked my car!" * anti-Hoot repellant * Russ: "Wait, now here's a good one, this is a good joke, listen. . ." * the green tank * Schizo Roberts and Brillo Morris * teacher's morals * "How can we have 103 days lost in production—we haven't even been in school that long." * the yearbook skit * "What ho, Brabantio!" * the four car squeeze and the freeway chase * "Well, I certainly haven't heard anyone walking around saying 'Nanoo, nanoo'! * The Conquests * Judy, the Dedicated * "You're as funny as a dead dog—and you know how funny dead dogs are." * Joanne and the 3R's * "Just when you're happy, Hoot walks in * dots and commas * one a.m. Monday on the town * "Yes, there were photographers at the football game. All of them were huddled up in one little clump just shooting away." * the Rabbit Killer * Dee Dee and Teddy * "What's an interview?" * The Suave Family (Mama, Papa and Fifi) * "Loook! It's a Marka Buehler." * "Did I study. . .am I going. . .do cows have wings. . ." "I lifted my hands from the typewriter, and they kept typing all by themselves!" * double bubble gum * Laurence of the ESCENA and her camel * "I can't get the candles lit—it's too windy out here." * The Brick * "Last Friday they all played charades; today it's baseball and pickle." * 13's * "I'm sorry but you can't look at those. . .good-bye . . .good-bye." * "The staff is going to Acapulco." * Lori and her "anemone" * "I Dial-a-Nazi * Matthew Marshall or Amanda Christine * "I think I'm in for a lynching. . ."

And that is the way it always was. . .each and every moment. By the end of the year, I was a "Schizo". I wasn't the only one of course. . .there was Mike "Papa" McHenry, Lori "Laurence of the ESCENA" Vallandigham, Chris "Midget" Simmons, Judy "The Dedicated" Lentz, Russ Shuirman, Mary Buckley, and Randi D-O-R-R-E-N-B-A-C-H-E-R. They all suffered as section editors of the "Crazy Crew". But we can not forget our leader either, Mrs. Melinda Smith, she was as crazy as anyone. . .

Now that the tale has been told, the tale of a "wild and crazy" year—I may depart by way of bluicide. . ."

The ESCENA staff would like to thank; NASA Jet Propulsion Lab., Pasadena, Calif., for the picture of the earth on page four; Corinne De Arakal for the picture on pages 158-159; Mr. Robert Frasco for the football coaches' picture on page 188; Barbara Desatnik of the Schubert Theatre for the publicity still from "Annie"; Dave Coats for the photograph of Diana Ross in concert on page 265; and Jim Hodgson, Brandi Easter, and Robert Estrada for other assorted photographs.

The staff would also like to thank Mr. Doug "Hoot" Gibson and Mrs. Delta June Clemmons of Josten's American Yearbook Company, Albert and James Photographers, Mr. Cecil Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Roberts, and especially all of our advertisers who helped make the book possible.

Laurie —

Well our high school years have finally come to an end and we have to go out into the big world! I've enjoyed high school so much + will always treasure the happiness I had there, I hope you can say the same.

"J" Club was great"

I wish you all the luck + love in the future always and I hope you figure out what your gonna do about Larry!?!?!?!?!?

Love Always
